Atom Missile Fire Causes No Hazard

Small Amount Of Radiation Is Released

Defense Dept., AEC To Probe Blaze At N. J. Bomarc Base

McGUIRE AIR FORCE BASE, N.J. (AP)—Fire broke out Teusday in the launching shelter of an atomic-armed Bomarc antiaircraft missile, causing the release of a small amount of radiation, the Air Force reported.

At first there was fear of widespread radiation over the sparsely populated pineland area around the base east of here. However, the Air Force in Washington later said there was no danger to the public.

The few highways that crisscross the remote countryside were closed off for a time. Police with geiger counters checked cars coming from the direction of the base.

State police initially reported an atomic explosion occurred.

A Defense Department expert said later, however, there had been no explosion.

In similar incidents, the Air Force has said that minute radioactive particles might be distributed over a very limited area as the result of fire or the detonation of conventional explosives in the trigger of a nuclear load.

Auto Traffic Resumes

The fire occurred at the 46th Air Defense Missile Squadron base in nearby Jackson Township, an area of scrubby pine forests and a few farms. In 1950 its population was 3,500.

McGuire is about 20 miles southeast of Trenton, the state capital.

The Air Force here said the blaze broke out at 3:15 p.m. and was extinguished 45 minutes later.

A sergeant at the missile base reportedly called state police at the Ft. Dix station saying "an atomic warhead had exploded" and asked troopers to shut off the roads against the probable danger of heavy radiation. Police did so.

Several hours later traffic was allowed to resume.

Several hundred soldiers on a training maneuver at Ft. Dix, a vast military camp near here, were pulled back as a precaution.

The Defense Department, the Atomic Energy Commission, and the State Department of Health all said they would investigate.

Several hours after the fire, decontamination experts clad in long green cloth attire, resembling heavy winter underwear, checked for radioactivity with geiger counters.

Tough Fire To Fight

The fire was in a 50-foot concrete shed that houses the slender 99A Bomarc missile.

On the basis of first reports, officials speculated the fire may have melted or burned open part of the covering of the Bomarc's nuclear armament.

Firemen said it had been a "difficult fire to fight," but Air Force spokesmen at the missile site would give no details.

A Defense Department expert in Washington said the TNT trigger of the warhead had "torched" in flame without exploding.

McGuire was the first base in the country to get the Bomarc. It was installed last December. There is another Bomarc site at the Suffolk County Air Force Base in New York.

Ike Will Breakfast With Rockefeller

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower will breakfast on Wednesday with Gov. Nelson Rockefeller at the New Yorker's request. It was presumed the discussion would at least touch on the 1960 GOP presidential campaign.

The meeting was announced by the White House shortly after the President returned from a nostalgic reunion with his classmates at West Point military academy.

Jet-'Copter Crash Kills 4 At Patuxent

Navy Plane Careens Into Rescue Craft

PATUXENT, Md. (AP) — At least four persons were killed Tuesday when a Navy jet plane collided with an Air Force helicopter at the Patuxent Naval Air Station.

The helicopter had flown here in connection with the rescue of two airmen involved in another crash a few hours earlier.

In the first crash, both men aboard escaped serious injury when they parachuted from a cripled B57A Canberra jet bomber. The twin-engine plane crashed in a wooded area four miles from here, narrowly missing a school and a trailer park.

The Navy, reporting the second accident, said an F8U Crusader jet failed in its take-off as it was launched from a hydraulic catapult at the air station.

Jet Swerves Into 'Copter

Witnesses reported the airplane left the catapult with one wing low, swerved and crashed into the helicopter which was on the ground preparing to take-off.

The helicopter had arrived shortly before from Langley Air Force Base, Va.

A Navy spokesman said both persons aboard the helicopter were killed while the pilot of the jet escaped with considerable injuries. He said the jet careened onto a parking lot, destroyed an ambulance, a fire truck and several other vehicles.

The Navy said the dead, in addition to the two aboard the helicopter, were an ambulance driver and a member of the operations department. The names were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Three Persons Injured

At least three persons were injured including the F8U pilot, who was listed in critical condition.

The B57A involved in the earlier accident was a Martin Canberra owned by the Federal Aviation Agency. The FAA said it was on a navigational aids flight test from Louisville, Ky. to Patuxent.

The FAA identified the men aboard as Leslie Cox of Vienna, Va., and Willis E. Graham of Oklahoma City, Okla. They bailed out over the air station and were taken to the base hospital for observation.

The plane crashed into a wooded area about 500 yards from the Great Mills high school and about the same distance from a trailer park.

Subway Blaze Traps 3,000 In Choking Smoke

NEW YORK (AP)—A third rail flash set fire to a trash pile in the Lexington Avenue subway tunnel beneath Grand Central terminal Tuesday. Eleven rush hour trains were stalled and more than 3,000 persons trapped up to three hours in choking smoke and terrifying heat and darkness.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner ordered a system-wide cleanup and safety inspection of the subways after a report on the incident from the Transit Authority.

Authority Chairman Charles L. Patterson said one of his inspectors noted the fire hazard two weeks ago on the site of a repair project. Patterson added that the private contractor on the job ignored a warning to clean up the trash and that the inspector never followed up on the matter.

One of the largest concentrations of disaster equipment in years converged on 42nd St. and Park Ave., one of the pulse centers of the city. There were no serious casualties.

At least 148 persons were taken to hospitals and rescue workers said several hundred others were treated at the scene for smoke poisoning. While being evacuated from the tunnel, one woman hurt her neck when she fell off a catwalk.

"Help me! Help me!" trapped passengers cried in a moment of initial hysteria as lights and fans went out in stalled trains and they found themselves trapped in the locked cars. Some windows were smashed.

Police said there was no panic of any proportions. The passengers were praised for their courage under conditions compelling terror. They sat quietly awaiting aid, or else groped their way through cars whose only light came feebly from small emergency bulbs.

Reagan Resigns As Guild Head; Now Producer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ronald Reagan resigned Tuesday as president of the Screen Actors Guild. Reason: He's joining the ranks of producers.

Reagan, who led the guild in the recent strike against the major studios, said he is becoming a partner in a production venture. Guild tradition bars from office actors who have a substantial interest in films. The board will appoint a successor Thursday.

"Assignments" Mailed 7,500 Youth Delegates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Homework assignments for the next 10 years will be mailed this week to the 7,500 delegates to the 1960 White House Conference on Children and Youth.

How those assignments are carried out will determine whether the conference was a million-dollar flop or a worthwhile endeavor.

Each delegate will receive a copy of the 1,400 resolutions the conference adopted — resolutions dealing with everything from migrant workers to radiation fallout, from sex education to segregation.

A summary of the 100-page booklet was released Tuesday, with a word of caution that the resolutions are not to be considered a blueprint for action in every community of the nation.

"The resolutions serve as a valuable checklist, by which communities and states can determine for themselves what must be done for their children and youth," said E. R. Gomberg, executive director of the conference.

Eli Ginzberg, another conference official, told the National Parent-Teachers Assn. convention last month that the six-day affair was too big and cumbersome to be effective, that the delegates bit off more than they could chew. Gomberg disagreed.

"The purpose of the conference was not to formulate a pat solution to all our social problems, and then to work for their simultaneous adoption throughout the United States," Gomberg said.

"The real purpose was to focus attention on those problems, and encourage the broadest national interest possible in their solution," he said.

Russ Disarm Plan Handed Conference

Soviet Delegate Jabs At U.S. Over Summit Failure

GENEVA (AP)—The Soviet Union Tuesday formally presented its new disarmament plan, which would give American forces 18 months to get out of Europe.

Introducing the Soviet proposal at the 10-nation disarmament conference, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin said a solution of the disarmament problem had been made "even more urgent and imperative" by events which led to the Paris summit fiasco.

In keeping with the Kremlin's line, he declared the summit conference "was torpedoed by the aggressive actions of the United States."

The Soviet disarmament plan couples the elimination of all means of delivering nuclear weapons with the "simultaneous" elimination of all military bases on foreign territories and the withdrawal of foreign troops to within their national boundaries.

Three-Stage Plan

The three-stage plan sets a time limit of 12 to 18 months for the completion of these measures in its initial phase.

Western delegations made no comment on the substance of the Soviet plan at the session, resuming the talks which had been in recess for six weeks.

Privately, Western conference sources made it amply clear, however, that the opening phase of the Soviet plan is unacceptable to the West as it now stands.

Zorin went out of his way to stress that the Soviet proposal includes several Western ideas put forward in the first six-week round of the disarmament talks.

New Deadlock Threatens

"This refers first of all," he said, "to the considerations put forward by France to the effect that the implementation of the disarmament program should begin with the destruction of the carriers of nuclear and other weapons of mass destruction."

But by linking the French idea to the abolition of bases and the withdrawal of foreign troops, the plan threatened to throw the conference into another deadlock.

Zorin added little new to what was already known about the Soviet plan.

He told a news conference later that the Soviet government might turn over its new plan to the United Nations General Assembly if agreement could not be reached here.

Kennedy 'Sure' Of Nomination

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) said Tuesday that he is "sure" of getting the Democratic presidential nomination.

Here to address the Michigan AFL-CIO convention, Kennedy said his latest survey of delegate support convinced him he will get "more than 600 votes in the early balloting" at the party's convention in Los Angeles next month.

"I'm sure now that I'm going to get the nomination," he added at a news conference.

It takes 761 votes to nominate.

Kennedy indicated this was the first time he had been so positive of winning nomination.

The 1,300 unionists at the convention gave a cheering, foot-stamping reception to the 43-year-old senator, after a glowing introduction by their president, August Scholle.

Scholle, a Democratic convention delegate, and Gov. G. Mennen Williams have endorsed Kennedy for the nomination, although Michigan's 51-vote delegation currently is pledged to Williams as a favorite son.

Kennedy said he was hopeful of getting backing from the United Auto Workers president, Walter P. Reuther, before the convention opens July 11. Reuther has taken a stand of neutrality on presidential candidates.

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI)—Some 35,000 persons began streaming out of quake-wrecked Valdivia late Tuesday on foot and in carts and trucks to escape the flood threat posed by the rain-swollen waters of Lake Rinihue some 45 miles east of the city.

Senator Urges T-H Use To Halt Missile Strike

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A demand that the Taft-Hartley Act be used to end a strike at four Atlas missile bases was made Tuesday as the company that makes the rockets later began laying off workers in walkout-crippled departments.

Convair Division of General Dynamics ordered the layoffs after the International Assn. of Machinists called out 425 more workers in its campaign to strike in strategic areas instead of ordering a costly company-wide shutdown.

Meantime a high-placed source at Cape Canaveral, Fla., denied an Air Force report that two Atlas missile test launchings scheduled this week have been postponed because of the strike.

The source, who declined to be identified, said only one Atlas was scheduled to go this week and "it's ready to go on time if no further technical difficulties result." He said a check of all missile contractors showed no missile firings are threatened unless the strike continues for several days. A Polaris missile, made by firms not involved in the strike, was fired Tuesday without any delay.

The developments came as E. Marvin Sconyers, federal mediator, said he was calling a meeting between the IAM and Convair for 3 p.m. Tuesday.

In Washington Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss) told the Senate "this strike gives the appearance of weakness and a lack of national responsibility."

He urged that the Taft-Hartley Act be invoked to get the strikers back to work while negotiations are being carried on.

Machinists picketed for the second day at the Cape and five Air Force bases, three of which have Atlas launching sites completed or under construction.

The bases are Vandenberg and Edwards in California, Warren AFB, Wyo., Offutt AFB ,Neb., and Holloman AFB, N.M.

In new strike action Tuesday, the IAM pulled 425 workers out of two Convair departments in San Diego. These included 50 men who service F106 jet interceptors and 375 of a force of 500 maintenance workers at the main Atlas plant.

A spokesman said 2,785 of 27,235 IAM members at Convair facilities were on strike.

Two Men Missing In Navy Plane Crash

OAK HARBOR, Wash. (UPI)—A Navy A3D twin - jet attack bomber shot off the runway on takeoff at the Whidbey Island Naval Air Station here Tuesday and sank in about eight feet of water 200 yards offshore.

Two men were missing and two were hospitalized. One of the hospitalized men was in serious condition and the other was reported in critical condition.

A helicopter pulled two injured men from Puget Sound. Search was continued for the others who were believed to have drowned.

California Primary Vote Light

By The Associated Press

A popularity contest between Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Gov. Edmund G. Brown didn't stir Californians much, judging by a light vote in Tuesday's primary.

Regardless of that test's outcome, Nixon was sure of pocketing the 70 Republican convention votes from his native state. And he stood to collect 36 more picked in a primary in South Dakota and a GOP convention in Connecticut.

Brown, who disclaims any presidential ambitions, was considered certain to walk off with an 81-vote Democratic convention delegation that was expected to split after casting a complimentary favorite son ballot for him.

Meanwhile, New Yorkers picked the bulk of the state's 114-vote delegation to the Democratic nominating convention and 96-vote delegation to the Republican convention, both next month.

While the two delegations will decide later whom to support, most of the Democratic slate is considered likely to go for Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts and the Republican one for New York's Gov. Nelson A Rockefeller.

Overshadowing the presidential and other features of New York's primary was a drive by insurgent Democrats against the Tammany leader Carmine G. DeSapio. The insurgents—led by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and former Sen. Herbert H. Lehman, among others — challenged Tammany with their own candidates for scores of posts.

Idaho, Mississippi and Montana also held primaries Tuesday, but they had little national significance. Only state and congressional nominations were involved.

Senate Unit Ups Defense Budget By $600 Million

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate subcommittee — in a postsummit mood to swell the nation's military muscle — added more than 600 million dollars to the defense money bill Tuesday. Other increases seemed certain.

Its most important decision was to restore 293 million dollars for a new conventionally powered carrier—money the House had denied entirely. The Senate appropriations group's move was a big victory for the Navy.

The actions—and the subcommittee's work was not yet finished—indicated an over-all Senate bill totaling more than 40 billion dollars for the bookkeeping year starting July 1. This would top President Eisenhower's requests and the House figure by perhaps a billion dollars.

While the subcommittee was ploughing through the giant bill, Senate Demonratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas told newsmen he expects the Senate to make "substantial increases" in certain key military items over totals the House passed before the summit talks collapsed in mid-May.

The House bill came to $39,337,867,000. This was only $121,967,000 more than Eisenhower asked. But the House Appropriations Committee reshaped vital parts of the President's military budget to furnish hundreds of millions of dollars more for preparations the House group considered urgent.

In restoring funds for another super flattop, the Senate subcommittee heeded an administration plea. The vote was reported near unanimous.

The subcommittee also went along with an administration bid to cancel a House-voted 3 per cent across-the-board-cutback in certain kinds of procurement. This is worth about 400 million dollars.

Government Asks Voting Referee In La. Rights Suit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers filed a suit Tuesday at Shreveport, La., to bring into play the voting referee provisions of the 1960 Civil Rights Act for the first time.

The suit charges there has been "a pattern of racial discrimination" in Bienville Parish, adjacent to Shreveport, designed to prevent eligible Negroes from taking part in elections.

Named as defendants in the action were Pauline A. Culpepper, Bienville registrar of voters, and various individual members of the White Citizens Council of Arcadia, La., and Gibsland, La.

The complaint charges that when the parish was preparing in 1957 to adopt a permanent registration system, the White Citizens Councils successfully challenged the registrations of 560 of the 595 Negroes registered to vote.

The suit said similar challenges were brought against only 45 of the more than 5,000 white voters then registered.

The suit, filed in U.S. District Court, asked that a voting referee be appointed.

It said the 560 registered Negroes removed from the Bienville rolls should have their registrations restored.

The action also asked that the registrar be enjoined "from further giving any legal effect" to challenges by Citizens Councils.

Registrar Culpepper was accused of refusing, contrary to state law, to accept counter-affidavits on behalf of those challenged.

White House Says No Delay Contemplated

Mrs. Eisenhower Will Not Accompany President On Trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said Tuesday that, despite growing concern about what troubles President Eisenhower may run into in Japan, "no change is contemplated" in his first visit there June 19-22.

The statement was issued by Mrs. Anne Wheaton, associate press secretary, in response to reporters' inquiries, she said. There have been demonstrations by leftist groups in Japan against Eisenhower's visit and threats to continue them if he does come.

"The purpose of the visit," Mrs. Wheaton said, "was and remains the payment of a courtesy call in a great sister democracy and the furtherance of the United States-Japanese friendship in connection with the United States—Japanese centennial celebration this year."

It was 100 years ago that formal U.S.-Japanese relations began.

Ike Should Go, Herter Says

The White House statement was issued a few hours after Secretary of State Christian A. Herter said he believes Eisenhower should, and will, go ahead with his plans to visit Japan.

But Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee before which Herter testifide, said his misgivings about Eisenhower going have not been entirely set to rest.

Fulbright said Herter presented a persuasive case in support of Eisenhower going ahead despite left-wing demonstrations and riots in Japan against the U.S. chief of state's visit.

The secretary of state, testifying first in open session, said in reply to questions that "under existing circumstances, the President's plans ought to remain unchanged."

Then Herter asked to reserve further discussion for a closed-door session. After that 30-minute meeting, Fulbright told reporters "I got the impression the President will go."

Mamie Not Going

And Herter himself told newsmen "I think so" when asked if he personally thought Eisenhower would make the trip.

Fulbright quoted Herter as saying Eisenhower would defer the visit if the Japanese government asked for a delay. But the senator said he understood that the government of Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi has sent assurances that it can provide adequate security to protect Eisenhower.

Japan Leftists Vow 'Sitdown' To Block Ike

TOKYO (AP)—Leftist students vowed Tuesday to mass on airport runways June 19 to halt President Eisenhower's arrival here for a four-day state visit. A government spokesman threatened "strong action" to halt any such demonstration.

"If Eisenhower forces his way in spite of our warning, he will be forced to tremble before hosts of hostile demonstrators," said a statement issued by leaders of the pro-Communist faction of Zengakuren, the student federation.

Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi met with the National Public Safety Commission, army directors and the labor minister to discuss the threat, which the students declared was aimed against "the vicious intrigue of international imperialists."

A federation spokesman said the demonstrators would not carry weapons to the airport, but would form a human wall to block the President's passage.

About 50 federation members have been arrested in recent demonstrations against the new U. S.-Japan security treaty, Kishi's government, and the Eisenhower visit.

The students said they would have opposed Eisenhower's visit even if the summit talks had been successful "because the purpose of his trip is to prop up the Kishi regime."

Russ Disarm Plan Handed Conference

Soviet Delegate Jabs At U.S. Over Summit Failure

GENEVA (AP)—The Soviet Union Tuesday formally presented its new disarmament plan, which would give American forces 18 months to get out of Europe.

Introducing the Soviet proposal at the 10-nation disarmament conference, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin said a solution of the disarmament problem had been made "even more urgent and imperative" by events which led to the Paris summit fiasco.

The Soviet disarmament plan couples the elimination of all means of delivering nuclear weapons with the "simultaneous" elimination of all military bases on foreign territories and the withdrawal of foreign troops to within their national boundaries.

Western delegations made no comment on the substance of the Soviet plan at the session, resuming the talks which had been in recess for six weeks.

But by linking the French idea to the abolition of bases and the withdrawal of foreign troops, the plan threatened to throw the conference into another deadlock.

Zorin added little new to what was already known about the Soviet plan.

He told a news conference later that the Soviet government might turn over its new plan to the United Nations General Assembly if agreement could not be reached here.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Homework assignments for the next 10 years will be mailed this week to the 7,500 delegates to the 1960 White House Conference on Children and Youth.

How those assignments are carried out will determine whether the conference was a million-dollar flop or a worthwhile endeavor.

Each delegate will receive a copy of the 1,400 resolutions the conference adopted — resolutions dealing with everything from migrant workers to radiation fallout, from sex education to segregation.

A summary of the 100-page booklet was released Tuesday, with a word of caution that the resolutions are not to be considered a blueprint for action in every community of the nation.

"The resolutions serve as a valuable checklist, by which communities and states can determine for themselves what must be done for their children and youth," said E. R. Gomberg, executive director of the conference.

Eli Ginzberg, another conference official, told the National Parent-Teachers Assn. convention last month that the six-day affair was too big and cumbersome to be effective, that the delegates bit off more than they could chew. Gomberg disagreed.

"The purpose of the conference was not to formulate a pat solution to all our social problems, and then to work for their simultaneous adoption throughout the United States," Gomberg said.

"The real purpose was to focus attention on those problems, and encourage the broadest national interest possible in their solution," he said.

Ike Will Breakfast With Rockefeller

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower will breakfast on Wednesday with Gov. Nelson Rockefeller at the New Yorker's request. It was presumed the discussion would at least touch on the 1960 GOP presidential campaign.

The meeting was announced by the White House shortly after the President returned from a nostalgic reunion with his classmates at West Point military academy.

Senator Urges T-H Use To Halt Missile Strike

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A demand that the Taft-Hartley Act be used to end a strike at four Atlas missile bases was made Tuesday as the company that makes the rockets later began laying off workers in walkout-crippled departments.

Convair Division of General Dynamics ordered the layoffs after the International Assn. of Machinists called out 425 more workers in its campaign to strike in strategic areas instead of ordering a costly company-wide shutdown.

Meantime a high-placed source at Cape Canaveral, Fla., denied an Air Force report that two Atlas missile test launchings scheduled this week have been postponed because of the strike.

The source, who declined to be identified, said only one Atlas was scheduled to go this week and "it's ready to go on time if no further technical difficulties result." He said a check of all missile contractors showed no missile firings are threatened unless the strike continues for several days. A Polaris missile, made by firms not involved in the strike, was fired Tuesday without any delay.

The developments came as E. Marvin Sconyers, federal mediator, said he was calling a meeting between the IAM and Convair for 3 p.m. Tuesday.

In Washington Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss) told the Senate "this strike gives the appearance of weakness and a lack of national responsibility."

He urged that the Taft-Hartley Act be invoked to get the strikers back to work while negotiations are being carried on.

Machinists picketed for the second day at the Cape and five Air Force bases, three of which have Atlas launching sites completed or under construction.

The bases are Vandenberg and Edwards in California, Warren AFB, Wyo., Offutt AFB ,Neb., and Holloman AFB, N.M.

In new strike action Tuesday, the IAM pulled 425 workers out of two Convair departments in San Diego. These included 50 men who service F106 jet interceptors and 375 of a force of 500 maintenance workers at the main Atlas plant.

A spokesman said 2,785 of 27,235 IAM members at Convair facilities were on strike.

Two men were missing and two were hospitalized. One of the hospitalized men was in serious condition and the other was reported in critical condition.

A helicopter pulled two injured men from Puget Sound. Search was continued for the others who were believed to have drowned.

California Primary Vote Light

By The Associated Press

A popularity contest between Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Gov. Edmund G. Brown didn't stir Californians much, judging by a light vote in Tuesday's primary.

Regardless of that test's outcome, Nixon was sure of pocketing the 70 Republican convention votes from his native state. And he stood to collect 36 more picked in a primary in South Dakota and a GOP convention in Connecticut.

Brown, who disclaims any presidential ambitions, was considered certain to walk off with an 81-vote Democratic convention delegation that was expected to split after casting a complimentary favorite son ballot for him.

Meanwhile, New Yorkers picked the bulk of the state's 114-vote delegation to the Democratic nominating convention and 96-vote delegation to the Republican convention, both next month.

While the two delegations will decide later whom to support, most of the Democratic slate is considered likely to go for Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts and the Republican one for New York's Gov. Nelson A Rockefeller.

Overshadowing the presidential and other features of New York's primary was a drive by insurgent Democrats against the Tammany leader Carmine G. DeSapio. The insurgents—led by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and former Sen. Herbert H. Lehman, among others — challenged Tammany with their own candidates for scores of posts.

Idaho, Mississippi and Montana also held primaries Tuesday, but they had little national significance. Only state and congressional nominations were involved.

Senate Unit Ups Defense Budget By $600 Million

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate subcommittee — in a postsummit mood to swell the nation's military muscle — added more than 600 million dollars to the defense money bill Tuesday. Other increases seemed certain.

Its most important decision was to restore 293 million dollars for a new conventionally powered carrier—money the House had denied entirely. The Senate appropriations group's move was a big victory for the Navy.

The actions—and the subcommittee's work was not yet finished—indicated an over-all Senate bill totaling more than 40 billion dollars for the bookkeeping year starting July 1. This would top President Eisenhower's requests and the House figure by perhaps a billion dollars.

While the subcommittee was ploughing through the giant bill, Senate Demonratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas told newsmen he expects the Senate to make "substantial increases" in certain key military items over totals the House passed before the summit talks collapsed in mid-May.

The House bill came to $39,337,867,000. This was only $121,967,000 more than Eisenhower asked. But the House Appropriations Committee reshaped vital parts of the President's military budget to furnish hundreds of millions of dollars more for preparations the House group considered urgent.

In restoring funds for another super flattop, the Senate subcommittee heeded an administration plea. The vote was reported near unanimous.

The subcommittee also went along with an administration bid to cancel a House-voted 3 per cent across-the-board-cutback in certain kinds of procurement. This is worth about 400 million dollars.

Government Asks Voting Referee In La. Rights Suit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers filed a suit Tuesday at Shreveport, La., to bring into play the voting referee provisions of the 1960 Civil Rights Act for the first time.

The suit charges there has been "a pattern of racial discrimination" in Bienville Parish, adjacent to Shreveport, designed to prevent eligible Negroes from taking part in elections.

Named as defendants in the action were Pauline A. Culpepper, Bienville registrar of voters, and various individual members of the White Citizens Council of Arcadia, La., and Gibsland, La.

The complaint charges that when the parish was preparing in 1957 to adopt a permanent registration system, the White Citizens Councils successfully challenged the registrations of 560 of the 595 Negroes registered to vote.

The suit said similar challenges were brought against only 45 of the more than 5,000 white voters then registered.

The suit, filed in U.S. District Court, asked that a voting referee be appointed.

It said the 560 registered Negroes removed from the Bienville rolls should have their registrations restored.

The action also asked that the registrar be enjoined "from further giving any legal effect" to challenges by Citizens Councils.

Registrar Culpepper was accused of refusing, contrary to state law, to accept counter-affidavits on behalf of those challenged.

White House Says No Delay Contemplated

Mrs. Eisenhower Will Not Accompany President On Trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said Tuesday that, despite growing concern about what troubles President Eisenhower may run into in Japan, "no change is contemplated" in his first visit there June 19-22.

The statement was issued by Mrs. Anne Wheaton, associate press secretary, in response to reporters' inquiries, she said. There have been demonstrations by leftist groups in Japan against Eisenhower's visit and threats to continue them if he does come.

"The purpose of the visit," Mrs. Wheaton said, "was and remains the payment of a courtesy call in a great sister democracy and the furtherance of the United States-Japanese friendship in connection with the United States—Japanese centennial celebration this year."

It was 100 years ago that formal U.S.-Japanese relations began.

Ike Should Go, Herter Says

The White House statement was issued a few hours after Secretary of State Christian A. Herter said he believes Eisenhower should, and will, go ahead with his plans to visit Japan.

But Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee before which Herter testifide, said his misgivings about Eisenhower going have not been entirely set to rest.

Fulbright said Herter presented a persuasive case in support of Eisenhower going ahead despite left-wing demonstrations and riots in Japan against the U.S. chief of state's visit.

The secretary of state, testifying first in open session, said in reply to questions that "under existing circumstances, the President's plans ought to remain unchanged."

Then Herter asked to reserve further discussion for a closed-door session. After that 30-minute meeting, Fulbright told reporters "I got the impression the President will go."

Mamie Not Going

And Herter himself told newsmen "I think so" when asked if he personally thought Eisenhower would make the trip.

Fulbright quoted Herter as saying Eisenhower would defer the visit if the Japanese government asked for a delay. But the senator said he understood that the government of Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi has sent assurances that it can provide adequate security to protect Eisenhower.

Japan Leftists Vow 'Sitdown' To Block Ike

TOKYO (AP)—Leftist students vowed Tuesday to mass on airport runways June 19 to halt President Eisenhower's arrival here for a four-day state visit. A government spokesman threatened "strong action" to halt any such demonstration.

"If Eisenhower forces his way in spite of our warning, he will be forced to tremble before hosts of hostile demonstrators," said a statement issued by leaders of the pro-Communist faction of Zengakuren, the student federation.

Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi met with the National Public Safety Commission, army directors and the labor minister to discuss the threat, which the students declared was aimed against "the vicious intrigue of international imperialists."

A federation spokesman said the demonstrators would not carry weapons to the airport, but would form a human wall to block the President's passage.

About 50 federation members have been arrested in recent demonstrations against the new U. S.-Japan security treaty, Kishi's government, and the Eisenhower visit.

The students said they would have opposed Eisenhower's visit even if the summit talks had been successful "because the purpose of his trip is to prop up the Kishi regime."

Md. Kennedy Group Has $10,691 Deficit

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Kennedy-for-President Committee spent $38,064 in the Maryland primary and still needs $10,691 to meet the bill, court records showed Tuesday.

Edward J. Morris, treasurer of the committee, reported contributions totaled $27,372 — with all but $154 of this coming from Sen. John F. Kennedy's Massachusetts headquarters.

Morris said a follow-up solicitation would be undertaken to make up the deficit.

Kennedy's spending in the successful campaign to nail down Maryland's 24 votes in the early balloting at the Democratic National Convention compared with $3,200 reported by supporters of Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon, the runner-up in the May 17 Maryland voting.

Herbert L. Fedder, Morse's manager, reported a $100 deficit, which he said he covered personally.

Other expense reports filed in connection with the Democratic primary included the following:

Fourth Congressional District: Rep. George H. Fallon, $18,859 expenses, 65-cent campaign fund balance, $3,000 contributed by Fallon; Francis X. Dippel, $16,263, no balance, $1,920 by Dippel.

Third Congressional District: Rep. Edward A. Garmatz, $24,485, $2,088 deficit, $2,600 by Garmatz.

Seventh Congressional District: Rep. Samuel A. Friedel, $27,794, $3,289 deficit, $4,600 by Friedel.

Adjournment Drive Started By Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) Tuesday laid out a heavy Senate work schedule as Congress started a five - week sprint for adjournment before the political conventions.

Johnson, an undeclared candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, said the Senate has "plenty of work to do and we are going to have to buckle down and get it done."

"I think we can consider ourselves as settling down to the homestretch of the session," Johnson said in a statement.

Assistant Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield (Mont.) said Congress "certainly won't come back after the conventions. He said "that would be nothing but a political forum. And I don't expect this session to reconvene after the November election."

President Eisenhower and Republican congressional leaders arrived at the same conclusion earlier. However, one veteran official said the second session of the 86th Congress has "about two months of work to get done in the next month."

One factor contributing to the legislative slowdown since Easter has been the rash of presidential primaries, involving both candidates and their supporters in the Senate.

The last of the 1960 presidential primaries were held Tuesday in California and South Dakota. New York held its congressional primary.

Although the end of the primaries will remove a distraction from the legislative program, presidential candidates, announced or unannounced, will continue campaigning for both convention delegates and popular support.

These were among 35 additional judgeships the committee recommended.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty, who is making arrangements for the President's trip, said in Manila Eisenhower would be accompanied by his daughter-in-law, Barbara. She is the wife of Lt. Col. John Eisenhower, a White House aide, who also will make the trip to Japan, Korea, the Philippines, Formosa and other Pacific points.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A little girl lay near death in a hospital Tuesday after a kitchen gas stove set fire to her dress as she played at home.

Five-year-old Luvenda Aikens, Negro, ran screaming into the street with her dress in flames. Police said there were two other children in the house but her mother was out.

A neighbor, Mack Able, 48, tore the child's clothing off and wrapped her in a blanket. He and another neighbor, Earl Holmes, 27, accompanied her to Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Doctors said the child was burned over 40 per cent of her body. Her condition was critical.

Tawes Enters Hospital For Abdominal Surgery

BALTIMORE (AP) — Gov. Tawes entered University Hospital Tuesday for an abdominal operation.

Dr. Thurston Adams will perform the surgery to remove a growth described as a "benign polyp" from the large intestine. The operation was delayed until now because Tawes contracted a mild chest cold about two weeks ago.

The 66-year-old governor said he expected to be in the hospital about 10 days but as soon after the operation as possible would keep abreast of state affairs by telephone.

One Conspiracy Charge Against Smith Dismissed

CENTREVILLE, Md. (AP) — Two circuit court judges Tuesday dismissed one of two conspiracy charges against a Charles County restaurant owner in connection with the robbery of his steakhouse.

The robbery, which resulted in the death of a State Police officer, occurred July 6, 1958 at Smitty's Steakhouse in the community of Bryans Road.

Banks L. Smith, 35, owner of the steakhouse, went on trial in Queen Annes County Circuit Court Monday on two charges of conspiracy.

Smith was charged with conspiracy to prejudice State Police and conspiracy to prejudice Albert G. Carbonneau, 33-year-old television repairman who was convicted last year of manslaughter in the fatal shooting of State Police Lt. Leonard N. Brown.

Defense attorney Carlyle J. Lancaster asked for directed verdicts of acquittal on both counts at the conclusion of the state's case Tuesday.

Judges J. DeWeese Carter and Thomas J. Keating, hearing the case without a jury, granted the motion for the charge concerning State Police but ordered the trial on the other count to continue.

The defense then called five character witnesses before the trial was recessed until Wednesday.

County Board Approves Wage Increase

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners passed a motion yesterday to increase the pay of all county employes who are eligible an across-the-board $200 annually.

Commissioner William A. Wilson made the motion to grant the pay increase so that provisions could be made to start paying the amount starting July 1.

Commissioner John T. Mason said he was opposed to granting the wage increase until after the results of a job classification study, being made by the State Department of Employment Security, is completed.

Mason said that under the job classification the pay increase would vary somewhat.

Commissioner John J. Rowan said the board had placed $75,000 in the budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 and the board had publicly committed itself to grant the $200 raise.

Wilson said he was agreeable to making adjustments after the job classification is completed. Mason said that under Civil Service regulations no wages can be reduced. Wilson said he was thinking in terms of more than $200 in certain cases.

Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the board, confirmed Mason's statement as to the Civil Service regulation on wages.

Wilson said that many county employes are poorly paid and he feels they should start to receive the increase with the beginning of the fiscal year July 1.

Mason emphasized his position by stating that: "I think you're making a mistake".

Following the dinner, the group will go to the new armory where the dedication will be held.

The armory was constructed by the John I. Vandegrift Company and was occupied during the winter by Headquarters Company and Company C of the tank battalion.

A Huntsville, Ala., man came to Cumberland Monday in search of a brother he hasn't seen in 38 years.

The man, Irvin B. G. Whitacre, of Huntsville, said his brother, Howard Crawford Whitacre, about 56, is believed to be residing in the Cumberland area.

Whitacre is in hopes anybody having information about his brother will contact him through the Cumberland Police Department.

County Names Seven To Fill Library Posts

Seven persons were recommended to the governor yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners to become trustees of the new countywide library system.

They are former mayor, Okey Michael of Westernport, one-year term; W. Wallace McKaig, local industrialist, two-year term; F. Allan Weatherholt, trial magistrate and newspaperman, three-year term; John T. Mason, dairy farmer and member of the county board of commissioners, four-year term; Dr. Adam Baer, Frostburg chiropractor, five-year term; James Alfred Avirett, local attorney, six-year term and Mrs. Richard Johnson, active in LaVale civic work, seven-year term.

The nominees will receive their appointments from Gov. Tawes under the law setting up the library program.

As each member of the board of trustees completes his term of office the new appointees will be on a seven-year basis.

The library program is listed to begin functioning July 1. The Cumberland Free Public Library will be incorporated into the system. Plans for a bookmobile to service the rural areas is also on the agenda.

Commissioner John J. Rowan, president of the board, said Mayor J. Edwin Keech informed him that the City of Cumberland will contribute funds for the library but mentioned no amount or what basis the money would be provided.

The city has been budgeting approximately $27,000 yearly for its library program over the past few years.

Railway Moves Huge Freight

One of the largest single pieces of freight to be handled in many years moved over the Western Maryland Railway from Ridgeley to Connellsville.

The 100-foot long industrial dryer was moved earlier from York to Maryland junction.

W. H. Rayburn, Western Division trainmaster, said all sidings along the 90-mile route were cleared before the local freight train could take it on its journey.

It was 15 feet five inches high and ten feet four inches wide, weighed 61 tons and extended 28 feet one inch over the end of the center flat car.

Two large housings were placed on the end flat cars. The Pennsylvania Railroad picked up the shipment to take it along on its trip to Chester, Calif.

The Western Maryland train could only travel 20 miles per hour between here and Connellsville. There were 31 points where there was close clearance, Rayburn said.

Rail Workers See Movie On Freight

Operating employes of the Western Maryland Railway's Division are being shown motion pictures in the company's instruction car on freight handling.

The special car will be at Maryland Junction near Ridgeley today and will be taken to Bowest, Pa., Monday.

It was at the Luke Mill of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company last Wednesday, for both paper mill and railroad employes. Thursday and Friday the car was at Elkins.

In addition to a talk on freight car handling in yards, a film on reduction of damage to freight is shown.

County Board To Meet Saturday

In order that the members of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners may attend a cruise on Chesapeake Bay as guests of the Maryland Port Authority on Friday the next meeting of the board will be on Saturday at the Court House.

Commissioner John J. Rowan will be out of town Thursday so the Saturday date was set. Commissioners William A. Wilson and John T. Mason will attend the Saturday session.

The bidding:

Opening lead: Jack of ♥

Failure by declarer to map out a campaign in all its details involved him in a staggering loss on the hand shown today. He had overlooked a possibility, because of its remoteness, and learned to regret what might be regarded as a bit of mental laziness.

When South arranged his hand it seemed like a practical joke, but this did not prevent him from opening with a bid of two spades. North had a sound raise to three spades and South then bid four clubs to show the ace. When his partner showed the ace of diamonds, South blithely bid a grand slam in spades. We would not have been nearly so sanguine in our attitude toward a contract which might hinge on a successful club finesse. A bid of four hearts by South would have presented his partner with a convenient opportunity to show second round control in either clubs or diamonds, if he had it.

Declarer took the heart opening in his hand, and drew trumps in two rounds ending up in dummy. He discarded the jack of clubs on the ace of diamonds and then finessed the queen of clubs. When West produced the king, declarer acknowledged a one trick set.

South had overlooked an additional prospect which though admittedly remote would have worked in this instance. After winning the opening lead, he should play the four of spades over to the jack, with the intention of ruffing a small diamond. When the ten of spades drops, an additional entry to dummy is assured, giving dummy three entries in all. Another small trump is led to the nine and now the ace of diamonds is cashed and a club discarded. The next round of diamonds is ruffed with a spade honor as the king of diamonds falls. The queen of diamonds is thus established in dummy for the second club discard and the carefully preserved deuce of spades provides entry to the three in dummy.

Note that if the king of diamonds does not drop, declarer still holds the club finesse in reserve as a last resort.

Ta Prohm, an ancient Buddhist monastery in Cambodia, once required a staff of nearly 80,000 people. According to an inscription there, 12,640 persons were in residence, and 66,625 men and women supplied food and other services. Eighteen high priests and 2,740 ordinary priests presided at ceremonies.

The first 500-mile Indianapolis Speedway race was held in 1911.

Opening lead: Jack of ♥

Failure by declarer to map out a campaign in all its details involved him in a staggering loss on the hand shown today. He had overlooked a possibility, because of its remoteness, and learned to regret what might be regarded as a bit of mental laziness.

When South arranged his hand it seemed like a practical joke, but this did not prevent him from opening with a bid of two spades. North had a sound raise to three spades and South then bid four clubs to show the ace. When his partner showed the ace of diamonds, South blithely bid a grand slam in spades. We would not have been nearly so sanguine in our attitude toward a contract which might hinge on a successful club finesse. A bid of four hearts by South would have presented his partner with a convenient opportunity to show second round control in either clubs or diamonds, if he had it.

Declarer took the heart opening in his hand, and drew trumps in two rounds ending up in dummy. He discarded the jack of clubs on the ace of diamonds and then finessed the queen of clubs. When West produced the king, declarer acknowledged a one trick set.

South had overlooked an additional prospect which though admittedly remote would have worked in this instance. After winning the opening lead, he should play the four of spades over to the jack, with the intention of ruffing a small diamond. When the ten of spades drops, an additional entry to dummy is assured, giving dummy three entries in all. Another small trump is led to the nine and now the ace of diamonds is cashed and a club discarded. The next round of diamonds is ruffed with a spade honor as the king of diamonds falls. The queen of diamonds is thus established in dummy for the second club discard and the carefully preserved deuce of spades provides entry to the three in dummy.

Note that if the king of diamonds does not drop, declarer still holds the club finesse in reserve as a last resort.

Ta Prohm, an ancient Buddhist monastery in Cambodia, once required a staff of nearly 80,000 people. According to an inscription there, 12,640 persons were in residence, and 66,625 men and women supplied food and other services. Eighteen high priests and 2,740 ordinary priests presided at ceremonies.

The first 500-mile Indianapolis Speedway race was held in 1911.

County Approves Bid For Road Grader

The bid of the John C. Lewis Company of Baltimore to provide a motor patrol grader for the County Roads Department for $15,105 was accepted by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday.

McClung-Logan Company, also of Baltimore, was awarded the contract to provide a large roller for $10,700. They were the only bidders who met specifications on the roller bid.

The Lewis firm was low bidder on the motor patrol grader and all of the companies which submitted offers met specifications. The bids were tabulated by Harry Skelly, roads supervisor, and Melvin Robinette, master mechanic for the department.

The commissioners also opened bids yesterday on 200,000 gallons of emulsified asphalt of three grades. The bids will be tabulated by Skelly and Robinette before action is taken.

The Garland Petroleum Company, city, bid by gallon was .124 cents on two grades and .133 cents on a third. Landall Corporation of Maryland bid .133 cents on two grades and .1425 on a third. James Gibbons Company bid .163 cents on all three grades. Chaney Petroleum Company bid .1265, .1285 and .1650 cents on the three grades.

Bids were also opened on a 15-ton truck crane for use of the Roads Department. The bids will also be tabulated by Skelly and Robinette prior to an award by the board.

The Chesapeake Supply and Equipment Company of Baltimore bid $28,461 with $3,622.98 allowance on a trade in; John C. Lewis Company of Baltimore bid $36,257 with a $5,600 allowance on a trade in; Rich Equipment Company, LaVale, bid $30,822.75 with an allowance of $3,022.75 on a trade in.

McClung-Logan Company of Baltimore bid $41,613 with a $5,853 trade, and Allied Equipment Company, Carnegie, Pa., bid $29,795 with a $6,000 trade in.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I can put my problem in a single sentence. We have four school-age children and one bathroom.

The girls are 16 and 15. They usually get in first and dawdle around putting on make-up which makes the boys mad.

The boys are 13 and 11. They usually have to do a hurry-up job, then I send them back almost daily to wash their necks. This makes them later than ever and there's always a fuss. Every morning the routine is the same — yelling, fighting and pounding on the bathroom door. I usually referee between the orange juice and the oatmeal.

My husband leaves at 6:30 a.m. so he misses all the commotion. When I try to tell him what it's like he says, "We had seven kids in our family and the bathroom was outside. We all lived through it." What can I do about this? — SCREAMING MIMI

DEAR SCREAMING: No force in all this world promotes cooperation and unselfishness in a family like one bathroom.

Call a summit meeting. Decide when the girls are to enter and leave the marble palace. Buy them a large wall mirror so they can make up their faces in their own room. This will help relieve the bottleneck.

Tell the boys they are going to be fined a nickel every time they are sent back to wash a neck. Reward them with a dime at the end of the week if they get past the neck-inspector without a demerit.

A home with four children and one bathroom is usually a lot happier than a home with four bathrooms and no children. Cheer up!

DEAR ANN: I'm going steady with this fellow. He is not working but I am. On the way home the other night he was arrested for speeding. He doesn't have the money to pay the fine. This means five days in jail.

I told him that I would pay the fine for him and he said, "Nothing doing."

I plan to marry him some day and I don't want the father of my children to have a jail record. He said this is not the same as having a jail record. Is it? Do you think he should accept my help or sit it out? — HIS GIRL

DEAR HIS: When a man goes to jail, it becomes a matter of record. This is called a jail record.

In my opinion he should accept your help and pay you back as soon as possible.

DEAR ANN: I live in a 5-family apartment house. I pay $60 a month for my apartment plus $5 a month for the garage. I don't have a car so I don't need a garage.

Another tenant in this apartment uses my garage but he does not pay me anything. I THINK he is paying the landlady.

I say the tenant should pay me the $5 garage money because it is really MY garage space he is using. The landlady says the garage does not belong to me. It belongs to her. Please tell me if she is right or if I am. Hurry and answer before the first of the month. I think I'm getting the works. — GYPPED

DEAR GYPPED: Do you have a lease? What does it say? If it says you pay $65 a month for the apartment and the garage, then you must pay it whether or not you use the garage. However, if this is the case, your landlady has no right to rent or give away space you are paying for.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry — Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I can put my problem in a single sentence. We have four school-age children and one bathroom.

The girls are 16 and 15. They usually get in first and dawdle around putting on make-up which makes the boys mad.

The boys are 13 and 11. They usually have to do a hurry-up job, then I send them back almost daily to wash their necks. This makes them later than ever and there's always a fuss. Every morning the routine is the same — yelling, fighting and pounding on the bathroom door. I usually referee between the orange juice and the oatmeal.

My husband leaves at 6:30 a. m. so he misses all the commotion. When I try to tell him what it's like he says, "We had seven kids in our family and the bathroom was outside. We all lived through it." What can I do about this? — SCREAMING MIMI

DEAR SCREAMING: No force in all this world promotes cooperation and unselfishness in a family like one bathroom.

Call a summit meeting. Decide when the girls are to enter and leave the marble palace. Buy them a large wall mirror so they can make up their faces in their own room. This will help relieve the bottleneck.

Tell the boys they are going to be fined a nickel every time they are sent back to wash a neck. Reward them with a dime at the end of the week if they get past the neck-inspector without a demerit.

A home with four children and one bathroom is usually a lot happier than a home with four bathrooms and no children. Cheer up!

DEAR ANN: I'm going steady with this fellow. He is not working but I am. On the way home the other night he was arrested for speeding. He doesn't have the money to pay the fine. This means five days in jail.

I told him that I would pay the fine for him and he said, "Nothing doing."

I plan to marry him some day and I don't want the father of my children to have a jail record. He said this is not the same as having a jail record. Is it? Do you think he should accept my help or sit it out? — HIS GIRL

DEAR HIS: When a man goes to jail, it becomes a matter of record. This is called a jail record.

In my opinion he should accept your help and pay you back as soon as possible.

DEAR ANN: I live in a 5-family apartment house. I pay $60 a month for my apartment plus $5 a month for the garage. I don't have a car so I don't need a garage.

Another tenant in this apartment uses my garage but he does not pay me anything. I THINK he is paying the landlady.

I say the tenant should pay me the $5 garage money because it is really MY garage space he is using. The landlady says the garage does not belong to me. It belongs to her. Please tell me if she is right or if I am. Hurry and answer before the first of the month. I think I'm getting the works. — GYPPED

DEAR GYPPED: Do you have a lease? What does it say? If it says you pay $65 a month for the apartment and the garage, then you must pay it whether or not you use the garage. However, if this is the case, your landlady has no right to rent or give away space you are paying for.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry — Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

May Building Tops Level Of Last Year

May proved another good month for the issuance of building permits by the Allegany County assessment department as 47 were obtained during the past month for construction which the builders estimate will cost a total of $235,695.

Both figures are higher than for the corresponding month of 1959 but lower than the year high totals for April. In May 1959 there were only 36 permits for construction which the builders estimated at $173,550. In April of this year 51 permits were issued for work estimated to cost a total of $304,200.

The five-month figures this year are running behind the level of last year, primarily because April did not keep pace with the corresponding month of 1959.

After five months this year, the assessment department has issued 139 permits for work estimated by the builders at $849,020. Last year, the five-month totals were 156 permits and $996,400. This year now trails by 17 permits and $147,380 behind the five-month pace a year ago.

The May permits authorized work in 17 different election districts of the county. The county leader, as usual, was District 29 in LaVale with 12 permits, more than 25 per cent of the total. Next was District 6, West Side suburban, with six permits. Tied for third place with four permits were Districts 7, Rawlings-Cresaptown, and 13, Mt. Savage.

Two other districts tied for fifth with three May permits were District 28, Frostburg suburban, and 31, McCoole. Four other districts had two permits each last month. They were District 5, North End suburban; 16, North Branch; 21, Gross, and 24, Eckhart.

The seven districts with one May permit each were 1, Little Orleans; 3, Flintstone; 8, Westernport suburban; 17, Vale Summit; 19, Borden Shaft; 22, East Side suburban, and 26, Frostburg suburban.

Well over half of the May permits were for construction of new dwellings. There were 26 for new dwellings, six for garages, four for additions to dwellings and two to enclose porches. Each of the other nine was for a different type project. One was for a garage and workshop, another for a dwelling and garage, one for a utility shed, roadside stand, wash house for a trailer court, combination swimming pool and enlargement of country club, garage and breezeway, addition to a porch and an addition to a restaurant.

Residents of the Tri-Towns area turned out yesterday afternoon and gave the quota of 85 pints of blood during the regular visit of the Johnstown Bloodmobile unit of the Red Cross.

Soil Scientist Gets Safe Driving Award

Kenneth M. Stone, soil scientist of the Soil Conservation Service office here, has been presented a citation for 20 years of safe driving.

The citation was signed by Donald A. Williams, national administrator for the SCS, said Martin Gordon, work unit conservationist of the local office. He received notification from Robert Swofford, state administrative officer at College Park.

Mr. Stone, who has been employed at the local office since 1952, started with SCS in Delaware and was in St. Mary's County before coming to Allegany County. He is a native of Preston County, W. Va.

Embezzlement Trials Rescheduled Here

The trial of two persons charged with embezzling funds from a local union, scheduled for yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court, has been rescheduled for tomorrow before Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley.

Ruth Yvonne Swain, former secretary and cashier of Local 568, International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Ironworkers, was arraigned by the judge.

George E. Clark, former business agent for the ironworkers, was also indicted in April on a charge of embezzling $3,383.25.

Driver Abandons Chartered Bus, 21 Hardy Co. Women

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Members of the Hardy County, W.Va., Farm Women's Club expected an uneventful trip when they hired three buses to bring them here on a sightseeing tour.

But at least 21 members Tuesday probably wish they had drawn another driver.

All the way through the Virginia mountains their driver had trouble shifting gears and figuring out the right road. Near Winchester he became separated from the other two buses in the convoy.

When the chartered bus arrived at Camp Washington in suburban Fairfax County, the driver pulled to the side of the road, got out—wearing what one passenger described as a disgusted expression—and disappeared.

Some passengers thought he was sick, some thought he didn't know how to drive, some thought he had gone for directions and some thought he had gone to a nearby frozen custard stand.

Wherever he went, he didn't come back, and a relief driver was summoned.

Postmasters Invited To Convene Here

The Cumberland Chamber of Commerce is inviting the Maryland chapter of the National Association of Postmasters to hold its 1961 convention in Cumberland.

Robert C. Petersen, manager, said the invitation is accompanied by information about the Queen City and its advantages as a convention city.

The Chamber pledged full cooperation if the 425-member association wishes to come to the mountains for its next meeting. The 1960 conclave is being held in Ocean City.

Similar invitations have been extended to a number of organizations to hold their meetings in Western Maryland.

Mr. Petersen pointed out that the expansion program under way at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club should help Cumberland meet the needs of convention groups, as some organizations need more space for banquets than is presently available.

Petry Addresses Parkside Class

Jack A. Petry, supervisor of high schools in Allegany County, addressed the 42 sixth-grade graduates of Parkside Elementary School in LaVale at commencement exercises Monday night.

The pupils presented a number of choral readings and songs under the direction of Mrs. Ruth A. Ludman, music teacher.

Miss Frances Crist and Raymond Ralston, the two sixth grade teachers, arranged the exercises. Mrs. Eleanor P. Tennant, school principal, presented Mr. Petry.

Eugene C. Harris, vice president of the PTA, presented diplomas to the 42 youngsters who will move on to Allegany High School next September. Mr. Harris teaches science at Flintstone High School.

"Pretty cool—the way banks advance the money for GAS Air Conditioning"

Casper the Bassett: No bones about it, was there? Bankers think a lot of GAS Central Air Conditioning because it increases the resale value of a home so much.

George: Tell me again what that friend of yours said.

Casper: Only cost him about $10.00 more a month on his mortgage payments. And don't forget, we want the same thing he got: the Arkla-Servel Central GAS System that both cools and heats.

George: Sure will be nice.

Casper: You should hear this friend of mine rave. He says everyone sleeps better. The whole family has less of a yen to get out of the house. They spend on an average of $6.00 a week less for recreation. Their cleaning and laundry bills went down 50%.

George: I'll be doggone.

Driver Abandons Chartered Bus, 21 Hardy Co. Women

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Members of the Hardy County, W.Va., Farm Women's Club expected an uneventful trip when they hired three buses to bring them here on a sightseeing tour.

But at least 21 members Tuesday probably wish they had drawn another driver.

All the way through the Virginia mountains their driver had trouble shifting gears and figuring out the right road. Near Winchester he became separated from the other two buses in the convoy.

When the chartered bus arrived at Camp Washington in suburban Fairfax County, the driver pulled to the side of the road, got out—wearing what one passenger described as a disgusted expression—and disappeared.

Some passengers thought he was sick, some thought he didn't know how to drive, some thought he had gone for directions and some thought he had gone to a nearby frozen custard stand.

Wherever he went, he didn't come back, and a relief driver was summoned.

Postmasters Invited To Convene Here

The Cumberland Chamber of Commerce is inviting the Maryland chapter of the National Association of Postmasters to hold its 1961 convention in Cumberland.

Robert C. Petersen, manager, said the invitation is accompanied by information about the Queen City and its advantages as a convention city.

The Chamber pledged full cooperation if the 425-member association wishes to come to the mountains for its next meeting. The 1960 conclave is being held in Ocean City.

Similar invitations have been extended to a number of organizations to hold their meetings in Western Maryland.

Mr. Petersen pointed out that the expansion program under way at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club should help Cumberland meet the needs of convention groups, as some organizations need more space for banquets than is presently available.

"Pretty cool—the way banks advance the money for GAS Air Conditioning"
Casper the Bassett: No bones about it, was there? Bankers think a lot of GAS Central Air Conditioning because it increases the resale value of a home so much.
George: Tell me again what that friend of yours said.
Casper: Only cost him about $10.00 more a month on his mortgage payments. And don't forget, we want the same thing he got: the Arkla-Servel Central GAS System that both cools and heats.
George: Sure will be nice.
Casper: You should hear this friend of mine rave. He says everyone sleeps better. The whole family has less of a yen to get out of the house. They spend on an average of $6.00 a week less for recreation. Their cleaning and laundry bills went down 50%.

New Polio Vaccine May Get Backing

House of Delegates of the American Medical Association will be asked at its June 13-17 meeting to consider a resolution recommending that the U. S. Public Health Service's division of biologic standards license for public use attenuated polio virus vaccine.

Attenuated polio vaccine differs from the Salk vaccine now in use in that the virus is not killed; it is made less virulent. In Salk vaccine the virus is killed. Doctors say exact duration of immunity brought by the killed virus vaccine is undetermined. Backers of perfected attenuated virus say immunity developed by it would likely be permanent.

In support of their petition, supporters of the resolution declare attenuated vaccine has been administered to millions of people in 19 different countries without any ill effects or a single case of paralytic polio being reported. Among the countries using the attenuated vaccine is Russia which is reported to be planning to inoculate all its citizens between the ages of two months and 20 years during 1960.

The Salk vaccine has been a great boon in cutting down the rate of polio. But it isn't necessarily perfect, as its developer was among the first to point out. Obviously, those engaged in research have not sat back and relaxed. They have developed an oral vaccine of the killed virus type. Another is the attenuated virus type now undergoing tests in Dade County, Fla.

If the tests prove successful, it should be approved and put into use—but not until it has been proved.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Silly Season

I see in "The Insider's Newsletter," an item to the effect that Denver Colorado, has invented a new method of hiring and firing teachers. They will do it by the pound. To discover how competent a teacher is to teach, let us say, calculus, Denver will put the teacher on a scale and weigh her. If the weight is right, that proves the teacher knows the Quantum Theory.

The story says that Denver's Health Service Department has listed a minimum and a maximum for teachers. If a young lady is 5 feet 6 inches, she must weigh between 99 and 170 lbs. That proves beyond doubt that she speaks French like a native, can teach American history like Charles A. Beard and can produce a school orchestra as Paul Whiteman's father did. If this same teacher seeks tenure, she must weigh between 116 and 142 lbs. Nothing is said about the condition of her teeth.

Maybe, you think I dreamed all this up on a spring day or that I have run out of copy. So help me, that is what "The Insider's Newsletter" says in its issue for women, on May 30, on page 2. I read it twice to make sure that they were talking about teachers and not horses.

The account even gives the reason for this important advance in education: teachers must be "physically, emotionally and mentally fit adults," and in Denver they expect to prove this fitness by weight. It is true that these days it is fashionable to believe that skinny people are fitter than fat. It is said that fat people are more prone to heart ailments. However, skinny folks catch colds and sneeze. So, which is a better teacher—one who is prone to a heart attack or one who sneezes? Of course, well-rounded but not fat gals are pleasanter to the eye; it is doubtful if very young children really care.

As for the emotions, that is indeed a tough one. The very fat girl may not have boys and that might sour her and she might take it out on the kids. On the other hand, it has long been traditional that fat folks are gay and jolly and skinny ones have a mean and hungry look. So you can form your opinion from psychiatry or Shakespeare as you choose.

Denver being so high, the blood pressure is different up there and they may have a different experience from the rest of us with the emotions. Nevertheless, teachers are people anywhere and are likely to have emotions about this or that, no matter how skinny or fat.

Finally, mental fitness is something which appears in queer places. Certainly nobody would have expected Mozart's father to produce such a son. Aristotle, Newton and Einstein must have been mentally fit, for theirs were the greatest intellects the human race has yet produced but their progenitors gave no indications that they would produce genius. I once saw Einstein walking about in the queerest clothes ever and if a stranger who had no intimation of his greatness saw him, he might have imagined that here was an old man who had lost his way. Well, it was Einstein all right and he had such mental fitness as no teacher in Denver ever possessed.

It would seem that we get wacky ideas all the time and this one is particularly wacky. Why not select teachers by the size of their feet or the color of their hair? For instance, a red-headed teacher might be regarded as too fiery and a blonde as too flirtatious, while a brunette might be seductive which would start the little boys off wrong. Perhaps there should be only bald-headed teachers. That would be dangerous too, for the little boys might grow up with a complex to hate women and that might make them masochists or something. There are books on the subject which you can read if you are so inclined.

The best solution to this serious problem would be to hire teachers who have no heads at all. Or better still, to do all our educating by closed circuit television and then the children would know that Ward Bond settled the country west of the Mississippi, that Jack Paar discovered Cuba and that Arlene Francis is prettier than Venus de Milo.

Khrushchev Seeks To Sabotage President's Trip To Far East

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Inside reason for Nikita Khrushchev's virulent attacks against Eisenhower is not to influence the American elections, as so widely reported, but to tear down the President's image in Asia just before his trip to Japan.

This is the studied opinion of our best intelligence experts, formed, incidentally, shortly before Khrushchev's latest blast but not changed by it. They have come to the conclusion that Khrushchev has adopted the following strategy:

During Ike's December tour of Asia, Khrushchev had to sit on his hands in the Kremlin while the President received one of the greatest ovations in history.

Khrushchev couldn't interfere with this. He was bound by the pact of Camp David not to inspire criticism of the U. S. A. Now he is not bound, and he is determined to tear down the Eisenhower image all over Asia.

Khrushchev, U. S. experts point out, visited Indonesia and India shortly after Eisenhower, and received rather a cool reception. This must have galled the world's No. 1 egotist and he does not want to see any more enthusiastic welcomes given Eisenhower.

Stalin's Off The Pedestal

U. S. experts also recall that Khrushchev has had a lot of experience in tearing down images. He is the man who startled the world by tearing down the image of Stalin and making it stick.

Today, one week before Eisenhower leaves for Japan, Khrushchev is in a position to do something about his reception there. Unquestionably he is already doing it. The anti-Eisenhower riots have become more violent and more embarrassing. The Tokyo police have been working extra shifts to stop them, without success.

This is in contrast to Ike's reception on his last two tours where even the Communists waved flags and posters reading "We Like Ike." In Italy, which has the largest Communist party in the world outside Russi , there was not one voice raised against Eisenhower last December. And the 1,000,000 Communists in Brazil did nothing to mar his Latin-American reception. They had received orders from Moscow to carry out the spirit of Camp David.

But now the Camp David spirit is out the window and every sign points to the probability that Eisenhower will get the roughest reception in Japan he has ever received abroad.

Rayburn Gets Stabbed

The "pauper's bill" for old-age health benefits, approved by the Ways and Means Committee last week, was a slap at House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas.

Rayburn personally pleaded with the ways and means chairman, Rep. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas, to approve a health insurance bill that would not embody either a "dole approach" or a raid on the federal treasury. Instead, he favored the principle of the Forand Bill, whereby medical benefits for people over 65 would be financed by Social Security taxes.

However, the Speaker was overruled by Mills and a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democratic conservatives on the ways and means committee, some of whom would be quite happy if Congress enacted no legislation at all for hospital care.

Rayburn has consistently gone to bat for the right of Southern conservatives to keep committee chairmanships and of Dixiecrat Howard Smith of Virginia's power to bottle up legislation in the Rules Committee. Yet time after time, as in the oldster medical bill, the Republican-Southern Democrat coalition has stabbed him in the back.

The measure finally approved by this coalition fell far short even of President Eisenhower's health insurance plan, which Rayburn once described as a "costly monstrosity."

If Menshikov has sent these results to Moscow — and it's almost certain he has — then it's increasingly doubtful that Khrushchev's tirades have been aimed at influencing the American elections.

Note — There is one contrary theory held by some senators — namely, that the Kremlin would like to see Nixon elected in order to keep the White House and Congress divided. There is no possible way by which the Republicans can win the Senate in November. It's mathematically impossible. And a divided government, with Republicans in control of the executive and Democrats in control of the legislative, could cause divided policy and divided leadership.

The President's Safety

The Secret Service, which has done a remarkable job of protecting Eisenhower on previous trips abroad, is really worried about the forthcoming trip to Japan. The Japanese government has promised to round up every crackpot, potential assassin, and Communist fanatic before Ike arrives and to ship them off to an island the same way de Gaulle handled French agitators prior to Khrushchev's recent visit to France.

However, even this is not likely to prevent unfriendly demonstrations. Some Secret Service men have suggested that the only way to prevent them would be to have Emperor Hirohito appear everywhere in public with Eisenhower. Japanese subjects customarily bow in the presence of the Emperor, which would prevent hostile demonstrations. However, it's highly doubtful the Emperor could accompany the President on all his many planned appearances in Japan, and, even if he did, it would be embarrassing.

Note — Some White House advisers would like to see the President withdraw from the Far Eastern trip, but plans have already gone so far that it would be a victory for Khrushchev to back out.

Reconnaissance Flights Should Be Resumed

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — If U-2 flights are not soon resumed, Nikita Khrushchev will have won his biggest victory over the West. For without giving in return a single concession, the Soviets have achieved the grounding of American reconnaissance planes.

This means that a surprise attack now can be mounted without previous detection of those measures of mobilization that would precede such an attack and which can be photographed from the air. The U-2 planes by their constant surveillance can furnish information that an attack is coming.

Why, it is being asked here, should the Soviets be insured against detection? If they were ready to agree to a program that would bind both sides to refrain from reconnaissance, there would be logic in their position, but no such proposal has been made by Moscow. Indeed, Mr. Khrushchev is mainly concerned now about an extension of our self-imposed ban. He says the present suspension lasts only until a new President of the United States comes into office on January 20th next and he wants pledges beyond that date. In other words, he wants to make permanent the military disadvantage from which the United States now suffers.

There is a difference between "espionage" and "surveillance." In the latter case the military forces of a nation feel they have a right at a critical time to observe the enemy forces. Under international law there is today technically a condition of "peace" between Russia and the United States, but actually there is a "cold war," and threats of attack have been made repeatedly by the Soviet Premier. So there is every right to make reconnaissance flights as a defense measure.

Just how high above the earth is a flight a mere act of justified observation, as, for instance, with a satellite that carries cameras, and when is it a "spy" flight? Senator John Stennis of Mississippi, Democrat, who is a member of the Senate Committee on Aeronautical and Space Sciences, has just made a speech calling attention to an article written by G. Zadorozhnyi, a Russian expert, in October 1957 for the newspaper "Soviet Russia" in which he says:

"The artificial satellite, on the flight around the earth, passes over the territory of practically all countries. According to the provisions of contemporary international law, the sovereignity of each state extends to all the air space above that state. In practice, however, up to now the question of sovereignity over airspace has been concerned only with the lower layers of the atmosphere at distances 12 to 18 miles from the earth within the limits of maximum ascent ceiling of present-day airplanes."

But the international agreements do not forbid use of the air by unarmed planes at any height. The United States, therefore, can justify its U-2 flights because its planes carried no weapons of war and have been in every sense unarmed. Are the Russians going to argue that no such planes now can fly over another nation's territory because mere transport of photographic apparatus is a violation of a nation's sovereignty? If they do, then they, in effect, will be abandoning their own doctrine and saying that their own satellites hereafter cannot traverse any other nation's air space.

The Soviet writer, quoted above, also cited many Western experts in support of his contention that the air is free. He declared:

"The contents of all these articles decidedly refute the assertions of some Western circles that the Soviet earth satellite allegedly violates international law and even all but threatens the security of the United States. The opinion of all these (Western) specialists comes to this: that there is nothing in either customary international law or international conventions which would be violated by the program of the International Geophysical Year."

But how high up is a flight scientific, and how low must it be to be considered military and engaged in "spying?" The camera knows no altitude limits. The satellites now in orbit have been taking pictures of military installations.

If, therefore, reconnaissance flights are to be stopped altogether, it must be by international agreement. Why should the United States suspend U-2 flights and give Russia a military advantage? This question is worrying military men generally, but it might well begin to worry everybody else because, for nearly four years, the U-2 has protected America against surprise attack. What will protect America now? That's the question involved in the growing demand for a resumption of U-2 flights or at least an agreement that will bind the Russians to open inspection so that no preparation will be made for surprise attack.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

A BLOW TO NIXON — The onus for carrying the GOP standard under trying conditions falls on Vice President Richard M. Nixon. As his party's almost unanimous choice to run for the Presidency this year, he will be the model which others running for the Senate and House will have to follow.

Until U-2, Nixon was the leading and most able proponent of GOP abilities in the field of foreign affairs. He had hit hard and often on the theme of Democratic incompetence to deal with other nations, particularly with the Communist foes.

If Nixon is nominated to head his party's ticket at Chicago, he will be forced to limit his campaigning to domestic issues and military and space policies. He has already declared that economics will be the principal issue in the coming campaign, but his political opponents contend this would be so only if he were permitted to pick his own issues.

Already completely identified with the Eisenhower administration, Nixon has in recent weeks closely allied himself with the administration's specific decisions on the handling of the spy plane case. If public reaction should run against the administration in the weeks ahead, it will be almost impossible for to extricate himself from sharing in the blame.

Should this reaction be unusually strong, it could hurt Nixon's chances of winning the nomination at Chicago. The Republican pros want Nixon; they believe they can win with him; and they feel he is a better known quantity than New York's Gox. Nelson A. Rockefeller or anyone else on the horizon.

However, if the administration should fall intio sudden dispute with the public, they will be strongly tempted to find a new name and a new personality not connected with Eisenhower in any way.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The last news story I wrote as a reporter was the Jack Dempsey-Hannah Williams divorce in White Plains, N.Y. The time was June 1943. It was a messy action. The champ won it and he also won custody of his daughters. Miss Williams accepted the beating and disappeared.

Dempsey put the little girls in a convent and they were raised by nuns. Those who worked on the "inside" of the story knew that Dempsey did not want to go to court. As an ex-heavyweight champion—perhaps the greatest—he had attained an augmented respectability as a father and a businessman. Hannah was unhappy and sometimes, when women ache steadily, they drink.

She was petite. Her dark hair hung long in deep waves and, when she was a Broadway star, she made a hit out of a song called "Cheerful Little Earful." After the little girls were born, Hannah wanted to go back to the footlights. Dempsey said no. He wanted a wife in the kitchen. The misery started there.

Hannah wanted to be good. The wise guys of Broadway, who weren't fit to tie the champ's laces, waited until he was on the road. Then they visited the Dempsey home and brought a little refreshment with them. Hannah couldn't say no very loud. Sometimes, when the champ came home, his wife was not there.

Last month, Simon and Schuster published a book called "Dempsey." It is a good biography. It should be. The champ had the help of two of the best writers in the business, Bob Considine and Bill Slocum, and what makes it good is that it is not a sports book. It tells a lot of truth about the strengths and weaknesses of a man.

I was interested to find out how much a 65-year-old grandfather was willing to tell about the past. He shades a few stories here and there, but he still protects the mother of his children. Hannah Williams is mentioned only on pages 154, 216, 217 and 218. His references are, as always, kindly.

". . . I laid it on the line with Hannah. I wanted a home and kids, not a life of hanging around a stage door or a movie lot, waiting for her to get off from work.

"That's just what she wanted too, Hannah said. And for a long time she lived up to it just wonderfully. We lived in New York in a penthouse on top of the Great Northern Hotel, which I controlled for a time. Everything was great. Joan was born at Polyclinic in 1935; Barbara in the same hospital two years later.

"Shortly after Barbara was born her mother decided that she had to go back into show business. Boredom? The ham in her? Who knows? I never did. And back she went. Hannah's new bookings were a disappointment to her. It was my fault, it seems.

"The girls were small and needed good attention as we started to crack up, and they weren't getting it. A crazy nursemaid Hannah hired once fed them dozens of aspirin tablets 'to keep them from crying at night.'

"Hannah decided that every night club in New York was a home away from home. It finally got to be a case of my bringing a sensational divorce action with a photographer and a couple of witnesses. It was a job that made me sick, but it had to be done for my girls."

The court record of evidence is still at White Plains. Jack Dempsey could have been a lot tougher in print. There is something awkward and appealing about a big roughneck playing the gentleman, but Dempsey plays it well and he plays it sincerely.

After 1943, Hannah Williams faded from the scene. Once in awhile, she was seen at a small club lifting a toast to the sunny days. Somewhere along the line, a customer with a long memory may have asked her to stand up and crack a chorus of "Cheerful Little Earful."

If she ever got to see the newspapers, she must have read about the weddings of her daughters, and the grandchildren. The last I heard of her was several years ago. A cheap hotel on the coast caught fire in the night and the guests came out bleary-eyed in nightgowns. The caption said that, among them was Hannah Williams.

She still rates a courtly bow from the champ. "As long as I live," he writes, "I'll be grateful to Hannah for giving me my wonderful girls."

Should Babies Have Human Or Cow's Milk?

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The Norbotten study on infant feeding demonstrated that youngsters thrive equally well on breast or bottle feeding. Children who subsisted entirely on cow's milk tended to be slightly heavier and taller by the end of 30 months. But the two groups showed no major differences in physical development, chemical composition of the blood, growth of bones including teeth, and immunity to disease.

This classic study was done on 402 infants born in the county of Norbotten, located in northern Sweden at the Arctic Circle. All the children came from similar homes and got an equal start in that their mothers were under strict health supervision during pregnancy.

The babies were examined repeatedly and many X-rays and blood tests were done. Comparisons were made at the end of 7½ months and again at 30 months of age. Immunization studies were included because human milk is said to contain protective antibodies against many diseases.

The dental examinations consisted of noting the time of eruption of the teeth and the frequency of cavities by the time the tykes were 30 months old. For a limited period during infancy, babies receiving human milk had more calcium in the blood, whereas the bottled had more phosphorus.

The incidence of fever and common contagious disease in the two groups was approximately the same. The only exception occurred in these weaned from the breast during the first few weeks of life; they had more acute infections of the nose, throat, bronchi, and ears.

These results may come as a surprise to persons who strongly oppose formula feeding. But the report did not detract one iota from the value of human milk. The researchers purposely avoided the emotional and economic advantages of breast feeding and its availability. The comparison applied only to the specific formula used, consisting of of an equal mixture of cow's milk and water with 5 per cent sugar and 1 per cent wheat flour.

TOMORROW: Enlarged prostate.

LYMPH GLAND CANCER

V. D. writes: A 1-year-old boy has lymphosarcoma. Was he born with it, or how does it occur?

REPLY

It is doubtful whether the child would have lived this long had he been born with the disease. The cause of of this form of cancer is not known. It has no regard for age and is resistant to treatment.

IMMUNE MILK

A. C. K. writes: Is immune milk good for arthritis?

REPLY

No—not even for arthritic cattle. Attempts were made a few years ago to produce protective milk that would immunize against various diseases as well as hay fever. The topic has made no headlines recently and methinks it is dead.

REST RELIEVES PAIN

F. P. writes: Why does angina stop when I stop walking and start again when I start walking?

REPLY

Because the flow of blood through the narrowed coronary arteries of the heart is adequate at rest but not when the heart muscle beats faster and harder, as when walking.

CARROTS AND VISION

A. D. V. writes: Are carrots good for the eyes?

REPLY

Carrots contain carotene, which is said to improve dark adaptation more quickly than does vitamin A. A deficiency in this vitamin is said to play a role in night blindness.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will b answered Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

The Silly Season

I see in "The Insider's Newsletter," an item to the effect that Denver Colorado, has invented a new method of hiring and firing teachers. They will do it by the pound. To discover how competent a teacher is to teach, let us say, calculus, Denver will put the teacher on a scale and weigh her. If the weight is right, that proves the teacher knows the Quantum Theory.

The story says that Denver's Health Service Department has listed a minimum and a maximum for teachers. If a young lady is 5 feet 6 inches, she must weigh between 99 and 170 lbs. That proves beyond doubt that she speaks French like a native, can teach American history like Charles A. Beard and can produce a school orchestra as Paul Whiteman's father did. If this same teacher seeks tenure, she must weigh between 116 and 142 lbs. Nothing is said about the condition of her teeth.

Maybe, you think I dreamed all this up on a spring day or that I have run out of copy. So help me, that is what "The Insider's Newsletter" says in its issue for women, on May 30, on page 2. I read it twice to make sure that they were talking about teachers and not horses.

The account even gives the reason for this important advance in education: teachers must be "physically, emotionally and mentally fit adults," and in Denver they expect to prove this fitness by weight. It is true that these days it is fashionable to believe that skinny people are fitter than fat. It is said that fat people are more prone to heart ailments. However, skinny folks catch colds and sneeze. So, which is a better teacher—one who is prone to a heart attack or one who sneezes? Of course, well-rounded but not fat gals are pleasanter to the eye; it is doubtful if very young children really care.

As for the emotions, that is indeed a tough one. The very fat girl may not have boys and that might sour her and she might take it out on the kids. On the other hand, it has long been traditional that fat folks are gay and jolly and skinny ones have a mean and hungry look. So you can form your opinion from psychiatry or Shakespeare as you choose.

Denver being so high, the blood pressure is different up there and they may have a different experience from the rest of us with the emotions. Nevertheless, teachers are people anywhere and are likely to have emotions about this or that, no matter how skinny or fat.

Finally, mental fitness is something which appears in queer places. Certainly nobody would have expected Mozart's father to produce such a son. Aristotle, Newton and Einstein must have been mentally fit, for theirs were the greatest intellects the human race has yet produced but their progenitors gave no indications that they would produce genius. I once saw Einstein walking about in the queerest clothes ever and if a stranger who had no intimation of his greatness saw him, he might have imagined that here was an old man who had lost his way. Well, it was Einstein all right and he had such mental fitness as no teacher in Denver ever possessed.

It would seem that we get wacky ideas all the time and this one is particularly wacky. Why not select teachers by the size of their feet or the color of their hair? For instance, a red-headed teacher might be regarded as too fiery and a blonde as too flirtatious, while a brunette might be seductive which would start the little boys off wrong. Perhaps there should be only bald-headed teachers. That would be dangerous too, for the little boys might grow up with a complex to hate women and that might make them masochists or something. There are books on the subject which you can read if you are so inclined.

The best solution to this serious problem would be to hire teachers who have no heads at all. Or better still, to do all our educating by closed circuit television and then the children would know that Ward Bond settled the country west of the Mississippi, that Jack Paar discovered Cuba and that Arlene Francis is prettier than Venus de Milo.

Reconnaissance Flights Should Be Resumed

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — If U-2 flights are not soon resumed, Nikita Khrushchev will have won his biggest victory over the West. For without giving in return a single concession, the Soviets have achieved the grounding of American reconnaissance planes.

This means that a surprise attack now can be mounted without previous detection of those measures of mobilization that would precede such an attack and which can be photographed from the air. The U-2 planes by their constant surveillance can furnish information that an attack is coming.

Why, it is being asked here, should the Soviets be insured against detection? If they were ready to agree to a program that would bind both sides to refrain from reconnaissance, there would be logic in their position, but no such proposal has been made by Moscow. Indeed, Mr. Khrushchev is mainly concerned now about an extension of our self-imposed ban. He says the present suspension lasts only until a new President of the United States comes into office on January 20th next and he wants pledges beyond that date. In other words, he wants to make permanent the military disadvantage from which the United States now suffers.

There is a difference between "espionage" and "surveillance." In the latter case the military forces of a nation feel they have a right at a critical time to observe the enemy forces. Under international law there is today technically a condition of "peace" between Russia and the United States, but actually there is a "cold war," and threats of attack have been made repeatedly by the Soviet Premier. So there is every right to make reconnaissance flights as a defense measure.

Just how high above the earth is a flight a mere act of justified observation, as, for instance, with a satellite that carries cameras, and when is it a "spy" flight? Senator John Stennis of Mississippi, Democrat, who is a member of the Senate Committee on Aeronautical and Space Sciences, has just made a speech calling attention to an article written by G. Zadorozhnyi, a Russian expert, in October 1957 for the newspaper "Soviet Russia" in which he says:

"The artificial satellite, on the flight around the earth, passes over the territory of practically all countries. According to the provisions of contemporary international law, the sovereignity of each state extends to all the air space above that state. In practice, however, up to now the question of sovereignity over airspace has been concerned only with the lower layers of the atmosphere at distances 12 to 18 miles from the earth within the limits of maximum ascent ceiling of present-day airplanes."

But the international agreements do not forbid use of the air by unarmed planes at any height. The United States, therefore, can justify its U-2 flights because its planes carried no weapons of war and have been in every sense unarmed. Are the Russians going to argue that no such planes now can fly over another nation's territory because mere transport of photographic apparatus is a violation of a nation's sovereignty? If they do, then they, in effect, will be abandoning their own doctrine and saying that their own satellites hereafter cannot traverse any other nation's air space.

The Soviet writer, quoted above, also cited many Western experts in support of his contention that the air is free. He declared:

"The contents of all these articles decidedly refute the assertions of some Western circles that the Soviet earth satellite allegedly violates international law and even all but threatens the security of the United States. The opinion of all these (Western) specialists comes to this: that there is nothing in either customary international law or international conventions which would be violated by the program of the International Geophysical Year."

But how high up is a flight scientific, and how low must it be to be considered military and engaged in "spying?" The camera knows no altitude limits. The satellites now in orbit have been taking pictures of military installations.

If, therefore, reconnaissance flights are to be stopped altogether, it must be by international agreement. Why should the United States suspend U-2 flights and give Russia a military advantage? This question is worrying military men generally, but it might well begin to worry everybody else because, for nearly four years, the U-2 has protected America against surprise attack. What will protect America now? That's the question involved in the growing demand for a resumption of U-2 flights or at least an agreement that will bind the Russians to open inspection so that no preparation will be made for surprise attack.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

A BLOW TO NIXON — The onus for carrying the GOP standard under trying conditions falls on Vice President Richard M. Nixon. As his party's almost unanimous choice to run for the Presidency this year, he will be the model which others running for the Senate and House will have to follow.

Until U-2, Nixon was the leading and most able proponent of GOP abilities in the field of foreign affairs. He had hit hard and often on the theme of Democratic incompetence to deal with other nations, particularly with the Communist foes.

If Nixon is nominated to head his party's ticket at Chicago, he will be forced to limit his campaigning to domestic issues and military and space policies. He has already declared that economics will be the principal issue in the coming campaign, but his political opponents contend this would be so only if he were permitted to pick his own issues.

Already completely identified with the Eisenhower administration, Nixon has in recent weeks closely allied himself with the administration's specific decisions on the handling of the spy plane case. If public reaction should run against the administration in the weeks ahead, it will be almost impossible for to extricate himself from sharing in the blame.

Should this reaction be unusually strong, it could hurt Nixon's chances of winning the nomination at Chicago. The Republican pros want Nixon; they believe they can win with him; and they feel he is a better known quantity than New York's Gox. Nelson A. Rockefeller or anyone else on the horizon.

However, if the administration should fall intio sudden dispute with the public, they will be strongly tempted to find a new name and a new personality not connected with Eisenhower in any way.

Khrushchev Seeks To Sabotage President's Trip To Far East

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Inside reason for Nikita Khrushchev's virulent attacks against Eisenhower is not to influence the American elections, as so widely reported, but to tear down the President's image in Asia just before his trip to Japan.

This is the studied opinion of our best intelligence experts, formed, incidentally, shortly before Khrushchev's latest blast but not changed by it. They have come to the conclusion that Khrushchev has adopted the following strategy:

During Ike's December tour of Asia, Khrushchev had to sit on his hands in the Kremlin while the President received one of the greatest ovations in history.

Khrushchev couldn't interfere with this. He was bound by the pact of Camp David not to inspire criticism of the U. S. A. Now he is not bound, and he is determined to tear down the Eisenhower image all over Asia.

Khrushchev, U. S. experts point out, visited Indonesia and India shortly after Eisenhower, and received rather a cool reception. This must have galled the world's No. 1 egotist and he does not want to see any more enthusiastic welcomes given Eisenhower.

Stalin's Off The Pedestal

U. S. experts also recall that Khrushchev has had a lot of experience in tearing down images. He is the man who startled the world by tearing down the image of Stalin and making it stick.

Today, one week before Eisenhower leaves for Japan, Khrushchev is in a position to do something about his reception there. Unquestionably he is already doing it. The anti-Eisenhower riots have become more violent and more embarrassing. The Tokyo police have been working extra shifts to stop them, without success.

This is in contrast to Ike's reception on his last two tours where even the Communists waved flags and posters reading "We Like Ike." In Italy, which has the largest Communist party in the world outside Russi , there was not one voice raised against Eisenhower last December. And the 1,000,000 Communists in Brazil did nothing to mar his Latin-American reception. They had received orders from Moscow to carry out the spirit of Camp David.

But now the Camp David spirit is out the window and every sign points to the probability that Eisenhower will get the roughest reception in Japan he has ever received abroad.

Rayburn Gets Stabbed

The "pauper's bill" for old-age health benefits, approved by the Ways and Means Committee last week, was a slap at House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas.

Rayburn personally pleaded with the ways and means chairman, Rep. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas, to approve a health insurance bill that would not embody either a "dole approach" or a raid on the federal treasury. Instead, he favored the principle of the Forand Bill, whereby medical benefits for people over 65 would be financed by Social Security taxes.

However, the Speaker was overruled by Mills and a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democratic conservatives on the ways and means committee, some of whom would be quite happy if Congress enacted no legislation at all for hospital care.

Rayburn has consistently gone to bat for the right of Southern conservatives to keep committee chairmanships and of Dixiecrat Howard Smith of Virginia's power to bottle up legislation in the Rules Committee. Yet time after time, as in the oldster medical bill, the Republican-Southern Democrat coalition has stabbed him in the back.

The measure finally approved by this coalition fell far short even of President Eisenhower's health insurance plan, which Rayburn once described as a "costly monstrosity."

If Menshikov has sent these results to Moscow — and it's almost certain he has — then it's increasingly doubtful that Khrushchev's tirades have been aimed at influencing the American elections.

Note — There is one contrary theory held by some senators — namely, that the Kremlin would like to see Nixon elected in order to keep the White House and Congress divided. There is no possible way by which the Republicans can win the Senate in November. It's mathematically impossible. And a divided government, with Republicans in control of the executive and Democrats in control of the legislative, could cause divided policy and divided leadership.

The President's Safety

The Secret Service, which has done a remarkable job of protecting Eisenhower on previous trips abroad, is really worried about the forthcoming trip to Japan. The Japanese government has promised to round up every crackpot, potential assassin, and Communist fanatic before Ike arrives and to ship them off to an island the same way de Gaulle handled French agitators prior to Khrushchev's recent visit to France.

However, even this is not likely to prevent unfriendly demonstrations. Some Secret Service men have suggested that the only way to prevent them would be to have Emperor Hirohito appear everywhere in public with Eisenhower. Japanese subjects customarily bow in the presence of the Emperor, which would prevent hostile demonstrations. However, it's highly doubtful the Emperor could accompany the President on all his many planned appearances in Japan, and, even if he did, it would be embarrassing.

Note — Some White House advisers would like to see the President withdraw from the Far Eastern trip, but plans have already gone so far that it would be a victory for Khrushchev to back out.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The last news story I wrote as a reporter was the Jack Dempsey-Hannah Williams divorce in White Plains, N.Y. The time was June 1943. It was a messy action. The champ won it and he also won custody of his daughters. Miss Williams accepted the beating and disappeared.

Dempsey put the little girls in a convent and they were raised by nuns. Those who worked on the "inside" of the story knew that Dempsey did not want to go to court. As an ex-heavyweight champion—perhaps the greatest—he had attained an augmented respectability as a father and a businessman. Hannah was unhappy and sometimes, when women ache steadily, they drink.

She was petite. Her dark hair hung long in deep waves and, when she was a Broadway star, she made a hit out of a song called "Cheerful Little Earful." After the little girls were born, Hannah wanted to go back to the footlights. Dempsey said no. He wanted a wife in the kitchen. The misery started there.

Hannah wanted to be good. The wise guys of Broadway, who weren't fit to tie the champ's laces, waited until he was on the road. Then they visited the Dempsey home and brought a little refreshment with them. Hannah couldn't say no very loud. Sometimes, when the champ came home, his wife was not there.

Last month, Simon and Schuster published a book called "Dempsey." It is a good biography. It should be. The champ had the help of two of the best writers in the business, Bob Considine and Bill Slocum, and what makes it good is that it is not a sports book. It tells a lot of truth about the strengths and weaknesses of a man.

I was interested to find out how much a 65-year-old grandfather was willing to tell about the past. He shades a few stories here and there, but he still protects the mother of his children. Hannah Williams is mentioned only on pages 154, 216, 217 and 218. His references are, as always, kindly.

". . . I laid it on the line with Hannah. I wanted a home and kids, not a life of hanging around a stage door or a movie lot, waiting for her to get off from work.

"That's just what she wanted too, Hannah said. And for a long time she lived up to it just wonderfully. We lived in New York in a penthouse on top of the Great Northern Hotel, which I controlled for a time. Everything was great. Joan was born at Polyclinic in 1935; Barbara in the same hospital two years later.

"Shortly after Barbara was born her mother decided that she had to go back into show business. Boredom? The ham in her? Who knows? I never did. And back she went. Hannah's new bookings were a disappointment to her. It was my fault, it seems.

"The girls were small and needed good attention as we started to crack up, and they weren't getting it. A crazy nursemaid Hannah hired once fed them dozens of aspirin tablets 'to keep them from crying at night.'

"Hannah decided that every night club in New York was a home away from home. It finally got to be a case of my bringing a sensational divorce action with a photographer and a couple of witnesses. It was a job that made me sick, but it had to be done for my girls."

The court record of evidence is still at White Plains. Jack Dempsey could have been a lot tougher in print. There is something awkward and appealing about a big roughneck playing the gentleman, but Dempsey plays it well and he plays it sincerely.

After 1943, Hannah Williams faded from the scene. Once in awhile, she was seen at a small club lifting a toast to the sunny days. Somewhere along the line, a customer with a long memory may have asked her to stand up and crack a chorus of "Cheerful Little Earful."

If she ever got to see the newspapers, she must have read about the weddings of her daughters, and the grandchildren. The last I heard of her was several years ago. A cheap hotel on the coast caught fire in the night and the guests came out bleary-eyed in nightgowns. The caption said that, among them was Hannah Williams.

She still rates a courtly bow from the champ. "As long as I live," he writes, "I'll be grateful to Hannah for giving me my wonderful girls."

Should Babies Have Human Or Cow's Milk?

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The Norbotten study on infant feeding demonstrated that youngsters thrive equally well on breast or bottle feeding. Children who subsisted entirely on cow's milk tended to be slightly heavier and taller by the end of 30 months. But the two groups showed no major differences in physical development, chemical composition of the blood, growth of bones including teeth, and immunity to disease.

This classic study was done on 402 infants born in the county of Norbotten, located in northern Sweden at the Arctic Circle. All the children came from similar homes and got an equal start in that their mothers were under strict health supervision during pregnancy.

The babies were examined repeatedly and many X-rays and blood tests were done. Comparisons were made at the end of 7½ months and again at 30 months of age. Immunization studies were included because human milk is said to contain protective antibodies against many diseases.

The dental examinations consisted of noting the time of eruption of the teeth and the frequency of cavities by the time the tykes were 30 months old. For a limited period during infancy, babies receiving human milk had more calcium in the blood, whereas the bottled had more phosphorus.

The incidence of fever and common contagious disease in the two groups was approximately the same. The only exception occurred in these weaned from the breast during the first few weeks of life; they had more acute infections of the nose, throat, bronchi, and ears.

These results may come as a surprise to persons who strongly oppose formula feeding. But the report did not detract one iota from the value of human milk. The researchers purposely avoided the emotional and economic advantages of breast feeding and its availability. The comparison applied only to the specific formula used, consisting of of an equal mixture of cow's milk and water with 5 per cent sugar and 1 per cent wheat flour.

TOMORROW: Enlarged prostate.

LYMPH GLAND CANCER

V. D. writes: A 1-year-old boy has lymphosarcoma. Was he born with it, or how does it occur?

REPLY

It is doubtful whether the child would have lived this long had he been born with the disease. The cause of of this form of cancer is not known. It has no regard for age and is resistant to treatment.

IMMUNE MILK

A. C. K. writes: Is immune milk good for arthritis?

REPLY

No—not even for arthritic cattle. Attempts were made a few years ago to produce protective milk that would immunize against various diseases as well as hay fever. The topic has made no headlines recently and methinks it is dead.

REST RELIEVES PAIN

F. P. writes: Why does angina stop when I stop walking and start again when I start walking?

REPLY

Because the flow of blood through the narrowed coronary arteries of the heart is adequate at rest but not when the heart muscle beats faster and harder, as when walking.

CARROTS AND VISION

A. D. V. writes: Are carrots good for the eyes?

REPLY

Carrots contain carotene, which is said to improve dark adaptation more quickly than does vitamin A. A deficiency in this vitamin is said to play a role in night blindness.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will b answered Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Coates Tosses 4-Hitter, Yanks Defeat Sox, 5-2

Jim Scores Sixth Straight Triumph

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jim Coates held the Chicago White Sox to four hits and aided his own cause with some timely hitting and base running Tuesday to help the New York Yankees score a 5-2 victory that stretched his own unbeaten pitching streak to six straight.

Coates retired the White Sox in order in seven of the nine innings. The Sox put men on base only in the second inning, when they scored two unearned runs,and in the eighth, when he pitched his way out of a jam.

With four straight victories at the end of the 1959 campaign Coates now has won 10 straight.

Manager Casey Stengel, chipper and hearty, rejoined the Yankees Tuesday after missing 12 games because of a virus infection. The 69-year-old manager appeared slightly pale but was in excellent spirits as he joked with players and reporters before the game.

Wynn Drops Fifth

The triumph was the Yankees' first in five games with Chicago this season and snapped a four-game Sox winning streak. Early Wynn, seeking the 274th victory of his career, suffered his fifth 1960 defeat.

Coates' wild throw set up the White Sox' two runs in the top of the second inning. Al Smith and Luis Aparacio singled in succession and when Wynn attempted a sacrifice bunt Coates threw the ball wildly past third base. Smith scored on the error and after the next two batters popped out, Minnie Minoso singled home Aparacio.

The 27-year-old Yankee righthander helped regain the lead in the bottom of the inning. Cletis Boyer led off with a double and Coates moved him to third with a short single to center. Coates then hustled home all the way from first base to score behind Boyer on Tony Kubek's double to left field. Kubek came home on successive infield outs by Hector Lopez and Mickey Mantle.

Moose Sews It Up

The Yankees added two runs in the eighth off reliever Dick Donovan. Lopez walked and went to third on Mantle's single. After Roger Maris forced Mantle at second, Bill Skowron doubled home the two runs.

Manager Al Lopez of the White Sox was ejected from the game in the second inning for protesting too strenuously against a pair of decisions by plat Uempire Frank Umont.

Senators Cop Sixth Place

Pascual Notches 6th Over Athletics, 7-2

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Washington Senators replaced Kansas City in sixth place Tuesday night by beating the Athletics, 7-2, with a 15-hit attack that earned Camilo Pascual his sixth victory of the season.

Pascual, out for 11 days after he wrenched his arm in a scuffle with Boston's Pete Runnels on May 27, tired after he had retired the first man in the seventh and needed the cleanup relief help of Tex Clevenger.

The Cuban right-hander had given up only three hits up to that point, but two were homers by Norm Siebern, his sixth, and Russ Snyder, his second. Pascual struck out three.

Harmon Killebrew hit his fourth homer of the season for the winners who kayoed Ray Herbert and dealt him his fifth loss.

Indians Belt Red Sox, 12-3

Boston Makes Four Errors In Inning

BOSTON (UPI) —The Cleveland Indians parlayed five Red Sox errors, four of them in one inning, and a cluster of timely hits into a 12-3 win over Boston Tuesday night.

Unable to get a batter on base the first three innings against righthander Jerry Casale, the second place Indians grabbed a 4-2 lead in the fourth as Boston's defense collapsed. Cleveland rubbed salt into the wound by coming up with six runs in the sixth inning after adding two in the fifth.

The major league record for the most errors in an inning is six, the dubious distinction being shared by the Yankees and the Indians in 1902 and 1921, respectively. The mark for errors by a team in a single game is 12, shared by Detroit and Chicago.

It was the 17th loss in 22 games for the Red Sox, who saw Buddin thrown out of the game in the fourth inning after he protested a called third strike.

Jim (Mudcat) Grant went all the way for Cleveland to post his fourth win against one defeat. Thomson and and Marty Keough homered for all of Boston's runs.

Jack And Gene Pick Johansson

NEW YORK (AP)—Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney, two of the great heavyweight boxing champions of the past, think Ingemar Johansson will beat Floyd Patterson in their June 20 rematch.

"You always have to pick the champion until he is licked," said Dempsey. "In the last fight he played with him, hit him at will. However, if Patterson can stay inside he has a chance to lick him."

"I think Johansson is going to be in complete control," said Tunney. "I'll be very much surprised if he doesn't repeat."

The two met Tuesday at a sports luncheon.

Valdes' Eye Bad, Fight Called Off

TORONTO (AP) — A heavyweight bout between Canadian Champion George Chuvalo and Cuba's Nino Valdes was called off Tuesday, six hours before fight time, when an eye specialist reported Valdes can hardly see out of his left eye.

The cancellation was announced by Merv McKenzie, Ontario athletic commissioner, after he received the report of the specialist.

McKenzie said the report indicated the 35-year-old Valdes was "a one-eyed fighter."

The 10-rounder had been scheduled as the main event of a special card at Maple Leaf Gardens. Word of McKenzie's decision caused promoters to call off the entire card.

Coates Tosses 4-Hitter, Yanks Defeat Sox, 5-2

Jim Scores Sixth Straight Triumph

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jim Coates held the Chicago White Sox to four hits and aided his own cause with some timely hitting and base running Tuesday to help the New York Yankees score a 5-2 victory that stretched his own unbeaten pitching streak to six straight.

Coates retired the White Sox in order in seven of the nine innings. The Sox put men on base only in the second inning, when they scored two unearned runs,and in the eighth, when he pitched his way out of a jam.

With four straight victories at the end of the 1959 campaign Coates now has won 10 straight.

Manager Casey Stengel, chipper and hearty, rejoined the Yankees Tuesday after missing 12 games because of a virus infection. The 69-year-old manager appeared slightly pale but was in excellent spirits as he joked with players and reporters before the game.

Wynn Drops Fifth

The triumph was the Yankees' first in five games with Chicago this season and snapped a four-game Sox winning streak. Early Wynn, seeking the 274th victory of his career, suffered his fifth 1960 defeat.

Coates' wild throw set up the White Sox' two runs in the top of the second inning. Al Smith and Luis Aparacio singled in succession and when Wynn attempted a sacrifice bunt Coates threw the ball wildly past third base. Smith scored on the error and after the next two batters popped out, Minnie Minoso singled home Aparacio.

The 27-year-old Yankee righthander helped regain the lead in the bottom of the inning. Cletis Boyer led off with a double and Coates moved him to third with a short single to center. Coates then hustled home all the way from first base to score behind Boyer on Tony Kubek's double to left field. Kubek came home on successive infield outs by Hector Lopez and Mickey Mantle.

Moose Sews It Up

The Yankees added two runs in the eighth off reliever Dick Donovan. Lopez walked and went to third on Mantle's single. After Roger Maris forced Mantle at second, Bill Skowron doubled home the two runs.

Manager Al Lopez of the White Sox was ejected from the game in the second inning for protesting too strenuously against a pair of decisions by plat Uempire Frank Umont.

Senators Cop Sixth Place

Pascual Notches 6th Over Athletics, 7-2

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Washington Senators replaced Kansas City in sixth place Tuesday night by beating the Athletics, 7-2, with a 15-hit attack that earned Camilo Pascual his sixth victory of the season.

Pascual, out for 11 days after he wrenched his arm in a scuffle with Boston's Pete Runnels on May 27, tired after he had retired the first man in the seventh and needed the cleanup relief help of Tex Clevenger.

The Cuban right-hander had given up only three hits up to that point, but two were homers by Norm Siebern, his sixth, and Russ Snyder, his second. Pascual struck out three.

Harmon Killebrew hit his fourth homer of the season for the winners who kayoed Ray Herbert and dealt him his fifth loss.

Indians Belt Red Sox, 12-3

Boston Makes Four Errors In Inning

BOSTON (UPI) —The Cleveland Indians parlayed five Red Sox errors, four of them in one inning, and a cluster of timely hits into a 12-3 win over Boston Tuesday night.

Unable to get a batter on base the first three innings against righthander Jerry Casale, the second place Indians grabbed a 4-2 lead in the fourth as Boston's defense collapsed. Cleveland rubbed salt into the wound by coming up with six runs in the sixth inning after adding two in the fifth.

The major league record for the most errors in an inning is six, the dubious distinction being shared by the Yankees and the Indians in 1902 and 1921, respectively. The mark for errors by a team in a single game is 12, shared by Detroit and Chicago.

It was the 17th loss in 22 games for the Red Sox, who saw Buddin thrown out of the game in the fourth inning after he protested a called third strike.

Jim (Mudcat) Grant went all the way for Cleveland to post his fourth win against one defeat. Thomson and and Marty Keough homered for all of Boston's runs.

Jack And Gene Pick Johansson

NEW YORK (AP)—Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney, two of the great heavyweight boxing champions of the past, think Ingemar Johansson will beat Floyd Patterson in their June 20 rematch.

"You always have to pick the champion until he is licked," said Dempsey. "In the last fight he played with him, hit him at will. However, if Patterson can stay inside he has a chance to lick him."

"I think Johansson is going to be in complete control," said Tunney. "I'll be very much surprised if he doesn't repeat."

The two met Tuesday at a sports luncheon.

Valdes' Eye Bad, Fight Called Off

TORONTO (AP) — A heavyweight bout between Canadian Champion George Chuvalo and Cuba's Nino Valdes was called off Tuesday, six hours before fight time, when an eye specialist reported Valdes can hardly see out of his left eye.

McKenzie said the report indicated the 35-year-old Valdes was "a one-eyed fighter."

The 10-rounder had been scheduled as the main event of a special card at Maple Leaf Gardens. Word of McKenzie's decision caused promoters to call off the entire card.

Barrelville's pace-setting Old Exports (6-1) will put a five-game winning streak on the line today when they engage the Centerville Reds (4-2) at Centerville, Pa., in one of the three Wednesday contests on tap in the Pen-Mar Baseball League.

In their last five outings 'Buck' Fiorita's tossers have scored 28 runs while holding the opposition to five. The Old Exports whipped Frostburg 1-0, Hyndman 10-0, Salisbury 5-2, Centerville 10-2 and Frostburg 2-1 in 12 innings.

Dave Richards (4-0) who has struck out 51 batsmen in four games, including the one-game season high of 17, will likely work on the firing line for Barrelville. Glenn Deremer (3-2) is expected to be Manager Frank Hite's choice for mound duty.

In other league engagements today, Mt. Savage's Old Germans (4-2) host the Flintstone Farmers, who have dropped eight games in a row, while Joe Langan's Frostburg Merchants (2-5) entertain the Cardinals (2-4) from Salisbury, Pa.

Starting time for all games is 6 p. m.

Chicago Cubs Rout Pirates By Score 13-2

Drop Third In Row, Vern Law Is Loser

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ernie Banks drove in four runs, scored three himself and just missed a home run when a bleacher fan knocked his liner back onto the field Tuesday to lead the Chicago Cubs to a 13-2 victory over the league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates.

It was the Cubs' sixth win in the last nine games, with 106 hits and 63 runs in the stretch and gave them a .500 record under Manager Lou Boudreau. For the Pirates it was their third straight defeat, but they hung on to first place in the National League chase.

Ellsworth Winner

Rookie left hander Dick Ellsworth held the Pirates to five hits in eight innings for his second win over them in as many starts. He beat Pittsburgh 5-1 in his debut with the Cubs this season.

Banks, lifted for a rest after six innings, increased his runs batted in total to 42, one behind Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh the league leader. His lost homer, which would have been his fourteenth, came in the second. A boy who tried to catch the ball on the catwalk in left field knocked it back to the field for a ground rule double.

Vernon Law Beaten

The Cubs wasted no time chasing the league's leading hurler, Vern Law, to the showers. Going for his ninth win, he was tagged for a double and two singles for a first inning run.

But in the second the Cubs got four unearned runs before Paul Giel took over. The debacle began after two were out when Ellsworth and Richie Ashburn singled. Both scored when Gino Cimoli dropped Bob Will's popup in a collision with Bob Skinner. It was an error on Skinner. Will tallied on Banks' double and after Ed Bouchee was hit by a pitched ball, Walt Moryn singled to score banks.

Giel got the side out, but pulled a leg muscle running out an infield grounder. Ben Daniels pitched the third inning, giving up five runs on two walks and four singles.

Daniels gave up three more runs before he was relieved after six frames.

Lions Defeat Kiwanis, 6-2

Elks, Bedford Road Score In Hot Stove

"Rocky" Klosterman hurled the Lions Club to a full game lead in the Hot Stove Baseball League when he mastered the Kiwanis Club on a five-hitter last night at Penn Avenue Field. The score was 6-2.

The victory was the sixth in seven outings for Manager John Daum's outfit.

Wally Harper slammed a homer and two triplets to pace the Lions' 10-hit assault. Bill Whiteman rapped a pair of singles.

A shoestring stab by Gary Manges on Diamond's liner to centerfield halted a Kiwanis threat with the bases loaded.

Rich Robinson's two-bagger was among the losers' five safeties. Klosterman fanned six in the Lions third straight victory and made his record 2-0.

Manager Joe Chorpenning's B. P. O. Elks crashed the win column for the first time this season with a 23-5 rout of the Outdoor Club which suffered its fifth straight setback.

Clout Seven Homers

The Elks' 17 hits included seven home runs. Allen Foley led the attack with five hits in as many official trips—three homers a triple and double and six RBIs, Jerry Arrowood clouted a pair of homers and single and pounded three home runs while Dave Price and Pat Chorpenning had a homer and single each. Merkel blasted a three-run homer for the O.D.C. in the first inning.

Thirteen Elks batted during the 10-run sixth inning.

Dave Price, Elks' relief pitcher, yielded only one hit in the last 4⅔ innings, whiffed eight, including the side in the final stanza.

Bedford Road's Optimists moved into the .500 circle with a 3-3 record by beating the Jaycees, 5-3.

One of the Jaycees' five hits yielded by Davy Martin was a homer by Bobby Neubeiser, the losing pitcher, in the second inning.

Five-Run Rally Wins

The Optimists, trailing 2-0, puled the ball game out of the fire with a five-run explosing in the fifth frame. Carl Morrison walked, Lee Miler singled, Tom Hamilton drew a pass and Lefty Shircliffe batted in the first two tallies with a single. Swnaye's triple accounted for two more tallies and Lease scored the final run on Robertson's single.

Robertson collected two singles while Swayne and Shircliffe had two RBIs each.

Chicago Cubs Rout Pirates By Score 13-2

Drop Third In Row, Vern Law Is Loser

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ernie Banks drove in four runs, scored three himself and just missed a home run when a bleacher fan knocked his liner back onto the field Tuesday to lead the Chicago Cubs to a 13-2 victory over the league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates.

It was the Cubs' sixth win in the last nine games, with 106 hits and 63 runs in the stretch and gave them a .500 record under Manager Lou Boudreau. For the Pirates it was their third straight defeat, but they hung on to first place in the National League chase.

Ellsworth Winner

Rookie left hander Dick Ellsworth held the Pirates to five hits in eight innings for his second win over them in as many starts. He beat Pittsburgh 5-1 in his debut with the Cubs this season.

Banks, lifted for a rest after six innings, increased his runs batted in total to 42, one behind Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh the league leader. His lost homer, which would have been his fourteenth, came in the second. A boy who tried to catch the ball on the catwalk in left field knocked it back to the field for a ground rule double.

Vernon Law Beaten

The Cubs wasted no time chasing the league's leading hurler, Vern Law, to the showers. Going for his ninth win, he was tagged for a double and two singles for a first inning run.

But in the second the Cubs got four unearned runs before Paul Giel took over. The debacle began after two were out when Ellsworth and Richie Ashburn singled. Both scored when Gino Cimoli dropped Bob Will's popup in a collision with Bob Skinner. It was an error on Skinner. Will tallied on Banks' double and after Ed Bouchee was hit by a pitched ball, Walt Moryn singled to score banks.

Giel got the side out, but pulled a leg muscle running out an infield grounder. Ben Daniels pitched the third inning, giving up five runs on two walks and four singles.

Daniels gave up three more runs before he was relieved after six frames.

Lions Defeat Kiwanis, 6-2

Elks, Bedford Road Score In Hot Stove

"Rocky" Klosterman hurled the Lions Club to a full game lead in the Hot Stove Baseball League when he mastered the Kiwanis Club on a five-hitter last night at Penn Avenue Field. The score was 6-2.

The victory was the sixth in seven outings for Manager John Daum's outfit.

Wally Harper slammed a homer and two triplets to pace the Lions' 10-hit assault. Bill Whiteman rapped a pair of singles.

A shoestring stab by Gary Manges on Diamond's liner to centerfield halted a Kiwanis threat with the bases loaded.

Rich Robinson's two-bagger was among the losers' five safeties. Klosterman fanned six in the Lions third straight victory and made his record 2-0.

Manager Joe Chorpenning's B. P. O. Elks crashed the win column for the first time this season with a 23-5 rout of the Outdoor Club which suffered its fifth straight setback.

Clout Seven Homers

The Elks' 17 hits included seven home runs. Allen Foley led the attack with five hits in as many official trips—three homers a triple and double and six RBIs, Jerry Arrowood clouted a pair of homers and single and pounded three home runs while Dave Price and Pat Chorpenning had a homer and single each. Merkel blasted a three-run homer for the O.D.C. in the first inning.

Thirteen Elks batted during the 10-run sixth inning.

Dave Price, Elks' relief pitcher, yielded only one hit in the last 4⅔s innings, whiffed eight, including the side in the final stanza.

Bedford Road's Optimists moved into the .500 circle with a 3-3 record by beating the Jaycees, 5-3.

One of the Jaycees' five hits yielded by Davy Martin was a homer by Bobby Neubeiser, the losing pitcher, in the second inning.

Five-Run Rally Wins

The Optimists, trailing 2-0, puled the ball game out of the fire with a five-run explosing in the fifth frame. Carl Morrison walked, Lee Miler singled, Tom Hamilton drew a pass and Lefty Shircliffe batted in the first two tallies with a single. Swnaye's triple accounted for two more tallies and Lease scored the final run on Robertson's single.

Robertson collected two singles while Swayne and Shircliffe had two RBIs each.

Eddie Machen Risks His No. 4 Rating Tonight

Opposes Johnson In Chicago Ring

CHICAGO (AP)—Eddie Machen, the fighter who "discovered" Ingemar Johansson, risks his rating as No. 4 heavyweight contender against unranked Alonzo Johnson in a Chicago Stadium 10-rounder Wednesday night.

The heavyweight bout will be televised nationally via ABC-TV at 9 p.m., EST.

Although Machen, 28, from Portland, Ore., has lost only twice in 35 starts, one of those defeats was Johansson's springboard to fistic glory. The handsome Swede flattened Machen in one round in September, 1958, and then went on to jar the heavyweight title from Floyd Patterson.

Before that Johansson's pro fame mainly was confined to Europe after a none-too-illustrious performance in the 1952 Olympics.

Machen contended he had a contract for a return match with Johansson, but the Swede went to court to avoid a second meeting, primed as he was for a shot at Patterson's crown. Machen dropped the suit, he explained, for lack of funds.

Machen is a 3-1 favorite over John

Frostburg State College Awards Diplomas To 116

Members of the graduating class of Frostburg State Teachers College were told yesterday that there is not only a demand for their services as teachers in today's world, but also a vital need for services as leaders, intelligent citizens and enlightened members

The speaker was William S. Schmidt, superintendent of schools for Prince Georges County, principal speaker at the college's graduation exercises during which 116 students were presented degrees.

Honors Presented

Graduates receiving academic honors were:

Associate in arts: William Robert Matheny and Charles Roger Diehl, both of Cumberland, (conferred in absentia).

Bachelor of science: Carol Jean Lannon, Marjorie Elaine Lewis and Kent Blair Fuller, all of Cumberland; Hila M. Hines, Laura Hamilton Clise and Rose Lee Chaney Folk; all of Frostburg; Caroline Angle Seburn and Patricia Weicht Heyde, all of Hagerstown; Delores Jean Vetter, Oakland; Idella Jean Stottlemyer, Little Orleans; Wilma Gail Haines and Rita Wiant Schoenadel, both of LaVale; Leo Anthony Cangianelli, Luke; Joan Helen McPartland, Lonaconing; Gail Kesner Dawson, Accident; Sterling Wallace Edwards Jr., Myersville, Md.; Eloise Margaret Wildensteiner, Silver Spring; Willeda Blair Wilson and John Edwin Winters, both of Midland, and Dorothy Marie Sensabaugh, Smithburg.

Education, Schmidt pointed out, "becomes a necessary function of our citizens if they are to realize their aims and purposes as a free people.

Cites Possibilities

"Four years of preparation and training to be a teacher have given you latent and potential powers for the guidance and development of countless youth who will come to you in successive years to drink of your wisdom and knowledge.

"As a teacher, you will be helping the boys and girls in your classes to find some direction for their lives and help them to gain perspective and grow in understanding themselves and others.

"By giving dimension to their living, dimension to their thinking, you will help them to face the challenge of fantastic obstacles, help them to become pioneers. Space and time become infinite in their concept as you with the children share the great ideas of philosophers, the thrilling explorations, the stimulating scientific discoveries, and the inspiring works of the great poets, essayists, and novelists.

Gives Dimension

"Education gives dimension to our living, our thinking, our service. Integrity determines the extent, the depth of that dimension.

"Integrity creates its own dimensions. Time and space will place no limit upon the influence you may wield as an individual, as a leader, as a great teacher if you possess integrity.

"Time and space will place no limit upon your ultimate success if the road you select is the pathway to truth.

"Dr. Russell Cromwell is probably best known for his work, "Acres of Diamonds." As teachers you will have an opportunity to discover your acre of diamonds — to polish them and shape them so that they will sparkle throughout a lifetime, maybe through eternity, with the shining light of truth, honor, sympathy, cooperation, fairness, goodness and integrity.

Teaching Is Luxury

"The manner in which you find, cut, shape, and polish these diamonds will determine the future of our society.

"May I extend to each of you today my personal best wishes for your success, with this thought: It is a luxury to learn; but the luxury of learning is not to be compared with the luxury of teaching."

Presiding at the exercises was Jerome Framptom Jr., president of the State Board of Education, while the degrees were conferred by R. Bowen Hardesty, president of Frostburg State.

Ninety-eight of the seniors were presented bachelor of science degrees in elementary and junior high education, and 18 sophomores received associate of arts degrees.

Frostburg State College Awards Diplomas To 116

Members of the graduating class of Frostburg State Teachers College were told yesterday that there is not only a demand for their services as teachers in today's world, but also a vital need for services as leaders, intelligent citizens and enlightened members

The speaker was William S. Schmidt, superintendent of schools for Prince Georges County, principal speaker at the college's graduation exercises during which 116 students were presented degrees.

Honors Presented

Graduates receiving academic honors were:

Associate in arts: William Robert Matheny and Charles Roger Diehl, both of Cumberland, (conferred in absentia).

Bachelor of science: Carol Jean Lannon, Marjorie Elaine Lewis and Kent Blair Fuller, all of Cumberland; Hila M. Hines, Laura Hamilton Clise and Rose Lee Chaney Folk; all of Frostburg; Caroline Angle Seburn and Patricia Weicht Heyde, all of Hagerstown; Delores Jean Vetter, Oakland; Idella Jean Stottlemyer, Little Orleans; Wilma Gall Haines and Rita Wiant Schoenadel, both of LaVale; Leo Anthony Cangianelli, Luke; Joan Helen McPartland, Lonaconing; Gail Kesner Dawson, Accident; Sterling Wallace Edwards Jr., Myersville, Md.; Eloise Margaret Wildensteiner, Silver Spring; Willeda Blair Wilson and John Edwin Winters, both of Midland, and Dorothy Marie Sensabaugh, Smithburg.

Education, Schmidt pointed out, "becomes a necessary function of our citizens if they are to realize their aims and purposes as a free people.

Cites Possibilities

"Four years of preparation and training to be a teacher have given you latent and potential powers for the guidance and development of countless youth who will come to you in successive years to drink of your wisdom and knowledge.

"As a teacher, you will be helping the boys and girls in your classes to find some direction for their lives and help them to gain perspective and grow in understanding themselves and others.

"By giving dimension to their living, dimension to their thinking, you will help them to face the challenge of fantastic obstacles, help them to become pioneers. Space and time become infinite in their concept as you with the children share the great ideas of philosophers, the thrilling explorations, the stimulating scientific discoveries, and the inspiring works of the great poets, essayists, and novelists.

Gives Dimension

"Education gives dimension to our living, our thinking, our service. Integrity determines the extent, the depth of that dimension.

"Integrity creates its own dimensions. Time and space will place no limit upon the influence you may wield as an individual, as a leader, as a great teacher if you possess integrity.

"Time and space will place no limit upon your ultimate success if the road you select is the pathway to truth.

"Dr. Russell Cromwell is probably best known for his work, "Acres of Diamonds." As teachers you will have an opportunity to discover your acre of diamonds — to polish them and shape them so that they will sparkle throughout a lifetime, maybe through eternity, with the shining light of truth, honor, sympathy, cooperation, fairness, goodness and integrity.

Teaching Is Luxury

"The manner in which you find, cut, shape, and polish these diamonds will determine the future of our society.

"May I extend to each of you today my personal best wishes for your success, with this thought: It is a luxury to learn; but the luxury of learning is not to be compared with the luxury of teaching."

Presiding at the exercises was Jerome Framptom Jr., president of the State Board of Education, while the degrees were conferred by R. Bowen Hardesty, president of Frostburg State.

Ninety-eight of the seniors were presented bachelor of science degrees in elementary and junior high education, and 18 sophomores received associate of arts degrees.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Gentle contours will replace razor-edges if you follow routines!

Contours Charm!

In your quest for the form divine, never rely on diet alone to accomplish your goal. Though you may eat like a bird, you may find that all that happens is your thin spots get thinner and those you want reduced stay the same old size. Or, if you are eating to gain, your new pounds settle in a fashion that just gives you a disproportionate figure.

Along with diet control, you must have muscle control—build tissue in areas where you are prone to boniness and trim it down in the too-well padded spots. That's what results in beauty!

There are special exercises to take care of any problem. Consider, for instance, the case of the scrawny collarbones. Whether you are trying to gain or trying to lose, today's exercises are specially designed to fill in that particular portion of the throat area.

1. Sit tailor fashion on the floor. Raise both arms straight up overhead. Turn the palms and curl the fingers as though grasping a bar. Then, very slowly, pull your elbows down and in toward each other, until they touch in front of your waistline. Pull hard, but slowly. Raise the arms to starting position and repeat... five times for the first few days. If you are overweight, increase your performance gradually to twenty times daily. If underweight, a gradual increase to about fifty times will get good results.

2. Face and stand an arm's length from a wall. Place both your palms on the wall at shoulder height with fingers pointing toward each other. Very slowly bend your elbows to let your body fall toward the wall until your chin touches it. Slowly push back to starting position. Be sure that while performing this routine, you avoid arching your lower back. Keep the back in a straight line. Make your arms and shoulders do the work.

Repeat five times in the beginning. Reducers should increase to fifteen times daily and gainers should work up to only twenty.

Well-covered collarbones are no small consideration in view of the current vogue for baretop fashions! Of just such is fashion smartness made!

TOMORROW: Diet Delight.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

STATE ROADS COMMISSION OF MARYLAND, Acting for and on behalf of the STATE OF MARYLAND vs. CORRIGANVILLE VOLUNTEER FIRE CO., INC., Corriganville, Allegany County, Maryland, Trustee; All residents of the Town of Corriganville, Allegany County, Maryland, Beneficiaries. No. 4045 Law IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR ALLEGANY COUNTY. Filed June 3" 1960.

PETITION NO. 4045

The object of this suit is to acquire by condemnation certain tracts or parcels of land situate in the Twentieth Election District of Allegany County, Maryland, belonging to Corriganville Volunteer Fire Company, Inc., Trustee, All residents of the Town of Corriganville, Beneficiaries and the County Commissioners for Allegany County.

The State Roads Commission of Maryland is charged with the construction and maintenance of highways and bridges in the State of Maryland.

That they have determined it to be necessary and proper to acquire for the purposes referred to in said Petition, and in connection with the construction and maintenance of the highway system of the State, certain tracts or parcels of land situate in the Twentieth Election District of Allegany County, consisting of 1.20 acres, more or less, lying between the lines marked "Right of Way Line" as shown on the attached Plats Nos. 15668, 15669 and 16428, and also all that property outside said lines, outlined by shading as shown and/or indicated on the attached Plat No. 22158 consisting of 2.23 acres, more or less, and .067 acres, more or less, for slope and drainage easements, as shown on Plats Nos. 15668, 15669 and 16428.

TOGETHER with the buildings and improvements thereon and the rights, alleys, ways, waters, roads, privileges, appurtenances and advantages to the same belonging or in anywise appertaining, together with the right or easement to create, use and maintain on the land shown hatched thus on the hereinbefore mentioned Plats Nos. 15668, 15669 and 16428, insofar as their property rights extend, such drainage structures and facilities as are necessary to adequately drain the roadway and/or adjacent property and such slopes as are necessary to retain the said roadway and/or adjacent property, it being understood that at such time as the contour of the land over which this right or easement is acquired is changed so that this easement required for slopes is no longer necessary to support or protect the property hereby to be acquired in fee simple, then said easement for slopes shall cease to be effective, together with the right to create, use and maintain on or across the adjacent land of the defendants, such waterways and/or inlets and outlets as are necessary for the drainage structures indicated in the legend shown in the left hand corner of the hereinbefore mentioned Plats Nos. 15668, 22158, 15669 and 16428, together with any right, title and interest of the defendants in and to the existing bed of Cash Valley Road, lying between the lines marked "Right of Way Line" as shown on Plats Nos. 15668, 15669 and 16428, together with any right, title and interest of the defendants in and to the existing bed of Maryland Route 36, lying between the lines marked "Right of Way Line" as shown on Plats Nos. 15668, 15669 and 16428, together with the perpetual right to erect and maintain between October 1st and April 1st of each and every year, on the adjacent land of the defendants, within one hundred feet of the land hereby condemned in fee simple, snow fences, provided that said snow fences shall not interfere with the construction and use of buildings now erected or hereafter erected, with growing crops, or roadways, together with all the right whatsoever of vehicular ingress and egress between the highway and the remaining property of the defendants across the right of way lines which are marked "Throughout This Portion Of The Right Of Way All Vehicular Access Is Denied", to the end that there never will be any vehicular access to or from the highway and the remaining property of the defendants across those portions of the right of way lines which are so marked on the beforementioned Plats Nos. 15668, 15669 and 16428.

The Petition further states that the said property is now held under the provisions of a Will of Joseph C. Corrigan, deceased to Corriganville Volunteer Fire Company, Trustee, probated on March 14, 1947 in Liber No. "V", Folio 420, among the Will Records of Allegany County, Maryland.

(a) The property hereby sought to be condemned is subject to the lien of real estate taxes levied by and due the County Commissioners for Allegany County.

That the land and property is sought to be condemned in connection with the State System of Roads and Bridges, and especially for the construction of Maryland Route 36, from U. S. Route 40 to Corriganville in Allegany County, Maryland.

That the Petitioner is unable to make an agreement with the defendants and that the Petitioner has deposited a check under the provisions of Chapter 59 of the Acts of 1956, in the amount of Six Hundred Thirty and are herewith depositing an additional check in the sum of One Thousand, One hundre Seventy, making a total of One Thousand Eight Hundred ($1,800.00) Dollars, payable to the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Allegany County, to the use of the aforesaid defendants, in the hands of the said Clerk, in conformity with the provisions of Article 89B, Section 9, Public General Laws of Maryland, said Petitioner deeming the said sum to be the fair value of the land taken and damages done to the property, and that it is in the public interest and necessary for them to take possession immediately upon depositing said money and that they are taking possession for the aforesaid purposes.

That your Petitioner is unable to designate by name all persons having an interest in the hereinbefore described parcel of land by reason of the indefinite nature of same, and your Petitioner accordingly makes parties to this proceeding, All Residents of the Town of Corriganville, Beneficiaries, to the end that all of their right, title and interest of whatever extent or character may be divested of them and vested in the State Roads Commission of Maryland, acting for and on behalf of the State of Maryland.

IT IS THEREUPON ORDERED by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, this 3 day of June, 1960, that the Plaintiff, by causing a copy of this Order to be inserted in a newspaper published in Allegany County, State of Maryland, once a week in each of four successive weeks before the 7" day of July, 1960, shall give notice to the Defendants, All residents of the Town of Corriganville, Beneficiaries, of the substance and object of the petition and to appear in the Circuit Court for Allegany County on or before the 9" day of August, 1960, and file their answer or other initial pleading in the Clerk's office of said Court, at Cumberland, Maryland, and to show cause, if any they may have, why the said property or said Defendants' interest therein should not be condemned as prayed in said Petition.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Gentle contours will replace razor-edges if you follow routines!

Contours Charm!

In your quest for the form divine, never rely on diet alone to accomplish your goal. Though you may eat like a bird, you may find that all that happens is your thin spots get thinner and those you want reduced stay the same old size. Or, if you are eating to gain, your new pounds settle in a fashion that just gives you a disproportionate figure.

Along with diet control, you must have muscle control—build tissue in areas where you are prone to boniness and trim it down in the too-well padded spots. That's what results in beauty!

There are special exercises to take care of any problem. Consider, for instance, the case of the scrawny collarbones. Whether you are trying to gain or trying to lose, today's exercises are specially designed to fill in that particular portion of the throat area.

1. Sit tailor fashion on the floor. Raise both arms straight up overhead. Turn the palms and curl the fingers as though grasping a bar. Then, very slowly, pull your elbows down and in toward each other, until they touch in front of your waistline. Pull hard, but slowly. Raise the arms to starting position and repeat... five times for the first few days. If you are overweight, increase your performance gradually to twenty times daily. If underweight, a gradual increase to about fifty times will get good results.

2. Face and stand an arm's length from a wall. Place both your palms on the wall at shoulder height with fingers pointing toward each other. Very slowly bend your elbows to let your body fall toward the wall until your chin touches it. Slowly push back to starting position. Be sure that while performing this routine, you avoid arching your lower back. Keep the back in a straight line. Make your arms and shoulders do the work.

Repeat five times in the beginning. Reducers should increase to fifteen times daily and gainers should work up to only twenty.

Well-covered collarbones are no small consideration in view of the current vogue for baretop fashions! Of just such is fashion smartness made!

TOMORROW: Diet Delight.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

STATE ROADS COMMISSION OF MARYLAND, Acting for and on behalf of the STATE OF MARYLAND vs. CORRIGANVILLE VOLUNTEER FIRE CO., INC., Corriganville, Allegany County, Maryland, Trustee; All residents of the Town of Corriganville, Allegany County, Maryland, Beneficiaries. No. 4045 Law IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR ALLEGANY COUNTY. Filed June 3rd 1960.

PETITION NO. 4045

The object of this suit is to acquire by condemnation certain tracts or parcels of land situate in the Twentieth Election District of Allegany County, Maryland, belonging to Corriganville Volunteer Fire Company, Inc., Trustee, All residents of the Town of Corriganville, Beneficiaries and the County Commissioners for Allegany County.

The State Roads Commission of Maryland is charged with the construction and maintenance of highways and bridges in the State of Maryland.

That they have determined it to be necessary and proper to acquire for the purposes referred to in said Petition, and in connection with the construction and maintenance of the highway system of the State, certain tracts or parcels of land situate in the Twentieth Election District of Allegany County, consisting of 1.20 acres, more or less, lying between the lines marked "Right of Way Line" as shown on the attached Plats Nos. 15668, 15669 and 16428, and also all that property outside said lines, outlined by shading as shown and/or indicated on the attached Plat No. 22158 consisting of 2.23 acres, more or less, and .067 acres, more or less, for slope and drainage easements, as shown on Plats Nos. 15668, 15669 and 16428.

TOGETHER with the buildings and improvements thereon and the rights, alleys, ways, waters, roads, privileges, appurtenances and advantages to the same belonging or in anywise appertaining, together with the right or easement to create, use and maintain on the land shown hatched thus on the hereinbefore mentioned Plats Nos. 15668, 15669 and 16428, insofar as their property rights extend, such drainage structures and facilities as are necessary to adequately drain the roadway and/or adjacent property and such slopes as are necessary to retain the said roadway and/or adjacent property, it being understood that at such time as the contour of the land over which this right or easement is acquired is changed so that this easement required for slopes is no longer necessary to support or protect the property hereby to be acquired in fee simple, then said easement for slopes shall cease to be effective, together with the right to create, use and maintain on or across the adjacent land of the defendants, such waterways and/or inlets and outlets as are necessary for the drainage structures indicated in the legend shown in the left hand corner of the hereinbefore mentioned Plats Nos. 15668, 22158, 15669 and 16428, together with any right, title and interest of the defendants in and to the existing bed of Cash Valley Road, lying between the lines marked "Right of Way Line" as shown on Plats Nos. 15668, 15669 and 16428, together with any right, title and interest of the defendants in and to the existing bed of Maryland Route #36, lying between the lines marked "Right of Way Line" as shown on Plats Nos. 15668, 15669 and 16428, together with the perpetual right to erect and maintain between October 1st and April 1st of each and every year, on the adjacent land of the defendants, within one hundred feet of the land hereby condemned in fee simple, snow fences, provided that said snow fences shall not interfere with the construction and use of buildings now erected or hereafter erected, with growing crops, or roadways, together with all the right whatsoever of vehicular ingress and egress between the highway and the remaining property of the defendants across the right of way lines which are marked "Throughout This Portion Of The Right Of Way All Vehicular Access Is Denied", to the end that there never will be any vehicular access to or from the highway and the remaining property of the defendants across those portions of the right of way lines which are so marked on the beforementioned Plats Nos. 15668, 15669 and 16428.

The Petition further states that the said property is now held under the provisions of a Will of Joseph C. Corrigan, deceased to Corriganville Volunteer Fire Company, Trustee, probated on March 14, 1947 in Liber No. "V", Folio 420, among the Will Records of Allegany County, Maryland.

(a) The property hereby sought to be condemned is subject to the lien of real estate taxes levied by and due the County Commissioners for Allegany County.

That the land and property is sought to be condemned in connection with the State System of Roads and Bridges, and especially for the construction of Maryland Route 36, from U. S. Route 40 to Corriganville in Allegany County, Maryland.

That the Petitioner is unable to make an agreement with the defendants and that the Petitioner has deposited a check under the provisions of Chapter 59 of the Acts of 1956, in the amount of Six Hundred Thirty and are herewith depositing an additional check in the sum of One Thousand, One hundre Seventy, making a total of One Thousand Eight Hundred ($1,800.00) Dollars, payable to the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Allegany County, to the use of the aforesaid defendants, in the hands of the said Clerk, in conformity with the provisions of Article 89B, Section 9, Public General Laws of Maryland, said Petitioner deeming the said sum to be the fair value of the land taken and damages done to the property, and that it is in the public interest and necessary for them to take possession immediately upon depositing said money and that they are taking possession for the aforesaid purposes.

That your Petitioner is unable to designate by name all persons having an interest in the hereinbefore described parcel of land by reason of the indefinite nature of same, and your Petitioner accordingly makes parties to this proceeding, All Residents of the Town of Corriganville, Beneficiaries, to the end that all of their right, title and interest of whatever extent or character may be divested of them and vested in the State Roads Commission of Maryland, acting for and on behalf of the State of Maryland.

IT IS THEREUPON ORDERED by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, this 3 day of June, 1960, that the Plaintiff, by causing a copy of this Order to be inserted in a newspaper published in Allegany County, State of Maryland, once a week in each of four successive weeks before the 7th day of July, 1960, shall give notice to the Defendants, All residents of the Town of Corriganville, Beneficiaries, of the substance and object of the petition and to appear in the Circuit Court for Allegany County on or before the 9th day of August, 1960, and file their answer or other initial pleading in the Clerk's office of said Court, at Cumberland, Maryland, and to show cause, if any they may have, why the said property or said Defendants' interest therein should not be condemned as prayed in said Petition.

Market Surges Upward For 4th Session In Row

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market stretched its rally to four successive gains Tuesday, restoring nearly $8,500,000,000 to market valuations since last Thursday.

The list vaulted soon after the opening bell, mustering at least half of the day's gain during the first hour.

In the forefront of the advance were the stocks in such basic industry groups as the steels, chemicals, autos and oils. Electronics scored some good gains along with many rail and glass stocks.

The industrial stock average closed at 645.58 up 8.66, pushing well through the top of a four-month trading range. That was the best closing level since Jan. 22 when the figure was 645.85. Industrials have tacked on a total of 20.69 points on average since the current rally got under way late Thursday afternoon.

The improved leadership, brokers noted, has attracted more attention perhaps than any other single factor. It has raised hopes that institutional investors will become more aggressive.

United Aircraft, which received a contract to build a conical rocket engine, rose a point in the blue chips. Kendall announced plans for a 2-for-1 stock split, boosted the dividend for the third quarter and the stock advanced well over a point.

In the steels, Allegheny Ludlum picked up more than 2, U.S. Steel over a point and Jones & Laughlin around 1.

Chrysler added more than a point in the autos while White Motor moved up nearly 4, Mack Trucks 1⅝, Ford ¾ and General Motors nearly a point.

Market Surges Upward For 4th Session In Row

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market stretched its rally to four successive gains Tuesday, restoring nearly $8,500,000,000 to market valuations since last Thursday.

The list vaulted soon after the opening bell, mustering at least half of the day's gain during the first hour.

In the forefront of the advance were the stocks in such basic industry groups as the steels, chemicals, autos and oils. Electronics scored some good gains along with many rail and glass stocks.

The industrial stock average closed at 645.58 up 8.66, pushing well through the top of a four-month trading range. That was the best closing level since Jan. 22 when the figure was 645.85. Industrials have tacked on a total of 20.69 points on average since the current rally got under way late Thursday afternoon.

The improved leadership, brokers noted, has attracted more attention perhaps than any other single factor. It has raised hopes that institutional investors will become more aggressive.

United Aircraft, which received a contract to build a conical rocket engine, rose a point in the blue chips. Kendall announced plans for a 2-for-1 stock split, boosted the dividend for the third quarter and the stock advanced well over a point.

In the steels, Allegheny Ludlum picked up more than 2, U.S. Steel over a point and Jones & Laughlin around 1.

Chrysler added more than a point in the autos while White Motor moved up nearly 4, Mack Trucks 1⅜, Ford ¾ and General Motors nearly a point.

York Company To Build New LaVale Center

Million-Dollar Contract Signed

A contract for over a million dollars has been signed by a York, Pa., contracting firm for the construction of a new shopping center in LaVale.

It was announced last night that the R. S. Noonan Construction Company of York has signed a contract to build LaVale Plaza, Inc. at the intersection of U. S. Route 40 and Braddock Road.

No date has been set for the start of the construction work, but it is scheduled to begin by September 1.

The Noonan firm has completed many state jobs in Pennsylvania, and has bid on major construction projects in this part of the country.

125,000 Square Feet

The new shopping center will consist of approximately 125,000 square feet with expansion plans for an additional 50,000 square feet of floor space at a later date.

Leasing commitments have already been entered into with Safeway Stores, the W. T. Grant Company, Peoples Drug Store, McCrory Stores and Triangle Shoes.

Bernard J. Rosenshine of New York, one of the principals in the negotiations, said last night that all engineering studies have been completed and that the architect is completing final plans.

He also said the Plaza organization is negotiating with several major national department stores, and that the center is assured of having one such store. He said space has been reserved for it in the firm's planning.

Designer of the center is Louis Liberman. It will reflect many advanced design features and will have parking facilities for more than 1,000 cars.

Leases are pending with several other chain stores and a number of independent tenants have submitted application for space in the new center. The center will house a minimum of 30 stores.

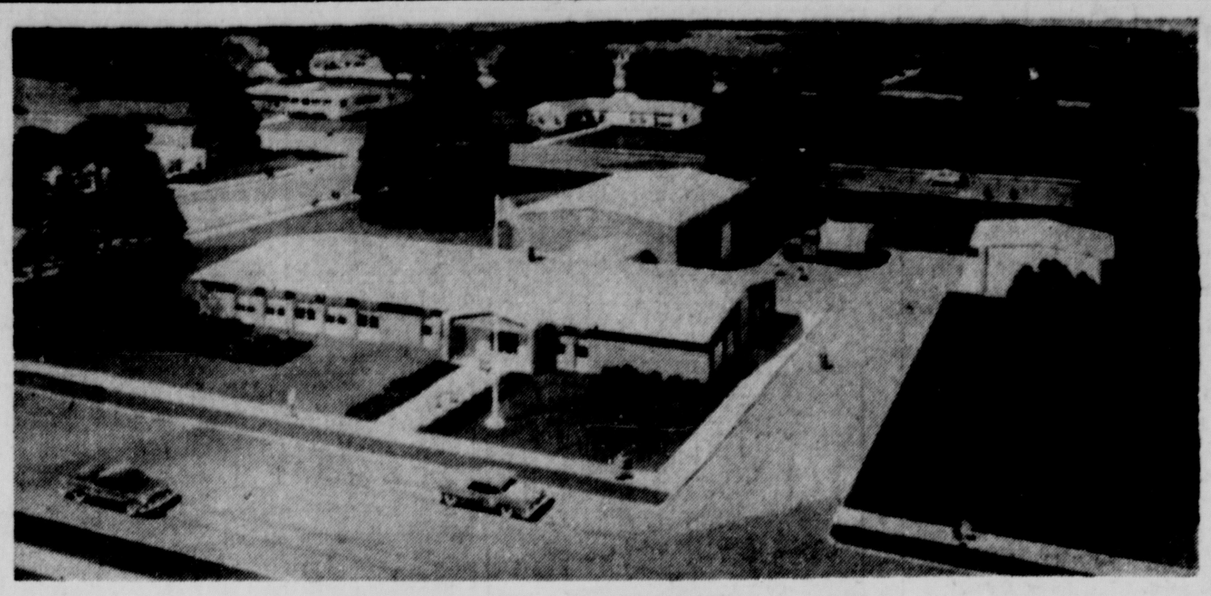
Will Relocate Stream

George Waingold is acting as local rental agent for the LaVale Plaza, Inc., which has been purchased by Collins Tuttle and Company, Inc. of New York City.

The center will be constructed of concrete block and brick with aluminum used extensively, along with glass.

Braddock Run will be relocated and two bridges will allow access to the parking area. The area about the center will include a playground for children and a park area along Braddock Run.

No completion date has been announced, but it is believed the center will be in operation by the fall of 1961.



Army Reserve Center

The above picture shows the type of the proposed new training center of the local Army Reserve units, being built along U. S. Route 220 near the Amcelle plant. Initial work on the new building has been started by the George F. Hazelwood Company which was awarded the contract. The new center is designed to provide training facilities for about 200 men who belong to local and area Army Reserve units. The present training center is located on Walnut Place. The above picture was provided by the U. S. Army Engineer District, Baltimore, from an architect's drawing of a center almost identical to the local one.

Fire, Smoke Rout Occupants Of Building

Firemen Extinguish Frederick St. Blaze

A two-alarm fire broke out at the rear entrance of an apartment house at 115 Frederick Street yesterday evening, and alarmed residents fled as smoke filled the building.

The blaze apparently started amid some cardboard boxes piled alongside the rear entrance and quickly flamed upward, shooting almost to the second floor of the three-story dwelling.

A passerby who resides near the apartment building spotted the flames about 5:20 p. m. and quickly alerted the Fire Department, which answered the alarm with one engine from Central Fire Company and the hook-and-ladder truck. Another engine was called to the scene shortly afterward as firemen feared the blaze would spread.

The fire was quickly snuffed out but firemen were plagued with dense smoke which had poured into the various apartments.

Power Lines Damaged

An added danger came from heavy power lines leading into the building which had the insulation burned off and frequently sparked and crackled. Firemen were fearful the lines would break and create an extra hazard as they worked in a narrow alleyway along the side of the apartment house.

Potomac Edison crewmen, summoned to the scene, soon shut off the power to the building. Residents of the apartments were to be without power overnight until repairs to the lines can be made today.

Firemen were forced to tear out the ceiling over the back door as well as the frames of several windows to see of the fire had spread inside the building's walls. Smoke poured out of various crevices and the heat made the rear stairway almost impassable.

Smoke Enters Buildings

The smoke poured into the Pink Carnation Beauty Salon, 115½ Frederick Street, routing the two attendants. It also filled the rear rooms of the Landis Typewriter Company and firemen at first feared the fire might spread into the repair and cleaning room where flammable liquids could be ignited.

Also endangered was a warehouse at the rear of the apartment building containing toys and equipment of Lou's Auto Stores, Baltimore Street, as well as the stores of McCarthy-Hicks Inc., wholesale liquor dealers.

Officials said if the fire had not been so promptly reported and had spread into the warehouse the whole city block would have been endangered.

The apartment building is owned by Mrs. J. G. Smith.

Assault Trials Under Way In Circuit Court

Closing Arguments Slated Tomorrow

Closing arguments in the trial of two men charged with assault with intent to rape a local woman will be heard tomorrow morning by Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Testimony was completed yesterday afternoon in the trial of Thomas Birmingham, 21, of Mt. Savage, and Donald Klosterman, 24, of 314 Washington Street. Thomas N. Berry represented the two men and at the outset of the court trial entered a plea of not guilty for them.

Meanwhile, an all-male petit jury heard opening statements yesterday afternoon in connection with the same assault, with Angus Lindwood Campbell, 23, of Slabtown, going on trial about 3 p. m. on a charge of rape.

The alleged assault occurred early the morning of May 16, according to testimony heard yesterday by Judge Fraley who excused the jury members about 3.40 p. m. and instructed them not to discuss the case with anyone.

Jurors Recruited

The jury was selected earlier yesterday and the regular petit jury panel was exhausted with only seven jurors qualifying and not being challenged.

The sheriff's deputies picked up six talesmen from downtown Cumberland, and of this group only one was challenged.

Aside from the local woman, Klosterman and Birmingham testified, as did Officer Charles Snider of the Cumberland Police Department, who made an initial investigation, and Edwin R. Lilya, county investigator.

In his opening statement yesterday morning State's Attorney James S. Getty told of the details that led up to the alleged assault and rape.

During the trial of Klosterman and Birmingham Mr. Berry declared the defense would admit details of the events leading up to the alleged assault. He asked the court for a verdict on the second count of the charge, simple assault.

Tried On The Charges

At the opening of the Campbell trial yesterday afternoon, Earl Manges, counsel for the defendant, entered a plea of not guilty. The court clerk read the indictment to the court and jury.

State's Attorney Getty said Campbell is being tried on three charges: rape, assault with intent to rape, and assault. He read pertinent sections of the Maryland Code in reference to the charges.

The jury is being asked by the state to bring in a verdict of guilty of rape after all testimony is heard. He then gave a detailed account of the happenings on Sunday night, May 15.

Attorney Manges then gave his opening statement before the jurors.

Donald Mason, assistant state's attorney is also assisting in presenting the state's case. About 35 or 40 spectators were seated in the court room during the two trials yesterday.

GOP Leaders Plan Strategy Talks Saturday

Keller Is Elected Convention Alternate

The Republican State Central Committee of Maryland will meet in Baltimore Saturday during sessions of the Republican State Convention.

J. Glenn Beall Jr., Allegany County GOP committee chairman, said all members of the committee plan to attend the meeting which will probably be held Saturday afternoon.

Plans for the November 8 election will be discussed by the committee, Mr. Beall said.

Certified to represent Allegany County at the state convention are Paul C. Haberlein, James S. Getty, Earl E. Manges, Mrs. Lucile Roeder, Charles M. See, Alvin Ternent and Mrs. Gertrude R. Verner.

Is Named Alternate

Mr. Beall said the GOP committee has elected Wallace B. Keller, 638 Bedford Street, president of the B & O Shop Crafts federation here, as an alternate.

Baltimore party leaders were working yesterday to avoid an open fight over moves to reduce their strength at Saturday's convention, The Associated Press said.

The meeting of the 152 delegates could produce some lively scuffling over such issues as this and the election of a national committeeman.

The committeeman's post, now held by former Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin, will be filled by national convention delegates elected at the state convention. Twenty-four will be named to represent the Maryland organization at the national convention in Chicago next month.

May Compromise

Eugene A. Sekulow, chairman of the GOP state central committee membership in the Seventh Congressional District, and City Chairman Richard P.Gilbert have expressed opposition to proposals which would reduce city representation on the national delegation and on the state executive committee.

There were strong indicaitons that some attempt to work out a compromise with county leaders would be made within 48 hours of the convention.

Some party leaders also had expressed disapproval over a decision by State Chairman D. Eldred Rinehart to withhold the names of delegates qualified to attend the state convention.

A spokesman at party state headquarters said Rinehart had decided not to release the list until the day of the convention, when the delegates are accredited by the credentials committee.

List Released

The list, however, was released by the Secretary of States' office in Annapolis, to which local election officials must certify successful candidates in the primary.

Several possible candidates for national committeeman and committeewoman have been mentioned, but party sources indicated that both McKeldin and Mrs. Robert O. Bonnell were prepared to meet any challenge.

Among those mentioned here for McKeldin's post are William C. Purnell of Baltimore, White House speech writer Malcolm Moos, former Reps. Edward T. Miller and James P. S. Devereux and Mr. Rinehart.

Forest Fires Are Blamed On Human Errors

Officials Talk At Foresters' Meet

Joseph Kaylor, director of the Maryland Department of Forests and Parks, yesterday morning pointed out that most large forest fires are due to human error when he spoke at the opening session of the department's annual forest fire training session at Herrington Manor.

The purpose of the annual sessions, he said, is to eliminate such errors as soon as possible.

Mr. Kaylor also stressed the importance of fire protection in the woods and pointed out that water conservation and protection of watersheds is another vital job of everyone.

Also increasing in importance is the protection of land along streams. These areas, he said, must be protected in order that the land will act as a sponge in retaining rainfall.

Col. Peter Vander Lugt of Annapolis, property custodian and safety officer of the department, spoke on safety and said that with the increased number of persons working in forests, it behooves them to exercise caution. He said it is everyone's job to be more careful.

H. C. Buckingham, state forester, confined his talk to personnel management and general administration of the department.

Later in the day the maintenance and operation of various pumps used in fire fighting was demonstrated. Also a new product for fire retardment was demonstrated to about 125 foresters in attendance.

This morning the foresters will get a review of the campaign fire manual of the department and learn how to organize for larger forest fires. Up until noon the men will practice on the suppression of fires and how to attack them.

This afternoon the foresters will build a mock fire area and execute a plan to fight the fires with men and equipment. A back fire will be controlled by tanker trucks and another section of fire line will be built by tractor plow units.

New Traffic Light Will Be Sought At Dingle Circle

Funds will be sought in the 1960-61 city budget to replace the Dingle traffic light, according to Police Commissioner Philmore Fleming.

He said it will cost about $1,700 to replace the light which controls the busy intersection.

The present light, Mr. Fleming said, is obsolete and difficult to repair and is frequently shorted out by moisture condensation.

Police To Continue Guarding Crossings

Police Commissioner Philmore Fleming said yesterday there is no truth at all to a rumor that Police Department officers will not work school crossings next year.

He said the department will take care of as many crossings as possible with available manpower, just as it did this year.

Mr. Fleming said officers have taken care of eight crossings this year before and after school.

It has also offered full cooperation to school patrols throughout the city, he said, and will continue to do so.

Board Grants Two Zoning Permits, Turns Down Third

The Board of Zoning Appeals has approved two occupancy permits and turned down a third.

The board approved the application of Dennis E. Perrin, 811 Camden Avenue, to build a 15 by 30 foot brick veneer addition to his home.

Cost of the work was estimated at $3,000. The addition will still leave a 15-foot front yard.

The application of Samuel T. Maphis, 514 Washington Street, to build a $700 addition at the rear of 702 Hill Top Drive was approved after plans were changed so it will not extend beyond the front or rear of the present building.

The board disapproved the application of Claude Nave to build a 10 by 20 foot carport at 737 Washington Street. The structure would have taken 10 feet of an existing 14-foot side yard.

Assault Trials Under Way In Circuit Court

Closing Arguments Slated Tomorrow

Closing arguments in the trial of two men charged with assault with intent to rape a local woman will be heard tomorrow morning by Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Testimony was completed yesterday afternoon in the trial of Thomas Birmingham, 21, of Mt. Savage, and Donald Klosterman, 24, of 314 Washington Street. Thomas N. Berry represented the two men and at the outset of the court trial entered a plea of not guilty for them.

Meanwhile, an all-male petit jury heard opening statements yesterday afternoon in connection with the same assault, with Angus Lindwood Campbell, 23, of Slabtown, going on trial about 3 p. m. on a charge of rape.

The alleged assault occurred early the morning of May 16, according to testimony heard yesterday by Judge Fraley who excused the jury members about 3.40 p. m. and instructed them not to discuss the case with anyone.

Jurors Recruited

The jury was selected earlier yesterday and the regular petit jury panel was exhausted with only seven jurors qualifying and not being challenged.

The sheriff's deputies picked up six talesmen from downtown Cumberland, and of this group only one was challenged.

Aside from the local woman, Klosterman and Birmingham testified, as did Officer Charles Snider of the Cumberland Police Department, who made an initial investigation, and Edwin R. Lilya, county investigator.

In his opening statement yesterday morning State's Attorney James S. Getty told of the details that led up to the alleged assault and rape.

During the trial of Klosterman and Birmingham Mr. Berry declared the defense would admit details of the events leading up to the alleged assault. He asked the court for a verdict on the second count of the charge, simple assault.

Tried On The Charges

At the opening of the Campbell trial yesterday afternoon, Earl Manges, counsel for the defendant, entered a plea of not guilty. The court clerk read the indictment to the court and jury.

State's Attorney Getty said Campbell is being tried on three charges: rape, assault with intent to rape, and assault. He read pertinent sections of the Maryland Code in reference to the charges.

The jury is being asked by the state to bring in a verdict of guilty of rape after all testimony is heard. He then gave a detailed account of the happenings on Sunday night, May 15.

Attorney Manges then gave his opening statement before the jurors.

Donald Mason, assistant state's attorney is also assisting in presenting the state's case. About 35 or 40 spectators were seated in the court room during the two trials yesterday.

GOP Leaders Plan Strategy Talks Saturday

Keller Is Elected Convention Alternate

The Republican State Central Committee of Maryland will meet in Baltimore Saturday during sessions of the Republican State Convention.

J. Glenn Beall Jr., Allegany County GOP committee chairman, said all members of the committee plan to attend the meeting which will probably be held Saturday afternoon.

Plans for the November 8 election will be discussed by the committee, Mr. Beall said.

Certified to represent Allegany County at the state convention are Paul C. Haberlein, James S. Getty, Earl E. Manges, Mrs. Lucile Roeder, Charles M. See, Alvin Ternent and Mrs. Gertrude R. Verner.

Is Named Alternate

Mr. Beall said the GOP committee has elected Wallace B. Keller, 638 Bedford Street, president of the B & O Shop Crafts federation here, as an alternate.

Baltimore party leaders were working yesterday to avoid an open fight over moves to reduce their strength at Saturday's convention, The Associated Press said.

The meeting of the 152 delegates could produce some lively scuffling over such issues as this and the election of a national committeeman.

The committeeman's post, now held by former Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin, will be filled by national convention delegates elected at the state convention. Twenty-four will be named to represent the Maryland organization at the national convention in Chicago next month.

May Compromise

Eugene A. Sekulow, chairman of the GOP state central committee membership in the Seventh Congressional District, and City Chairman Richard P.Gilbert have expressed opposition to proposals which would reduce city representation on the national delegation and on the state executive committee.

There were strong indicaitons that some attempt to work out a compromise with county leaders would be made within 48 hours of the convention.

Some party leaders also had expressed disapproval over a decision by State Chairman D. Eldred Rinehart to withhold the names of delegates qualified to attend the state convention.

A spokesman at party state headquarters said Rinehart had decided not to release the list until the day of the convention, when the delegates are accredited by the credentials committee.

List Released

The list, however, was released by the Secretary of States' office in Annapolis, to which local election officials must certify successful candidates in the primary.

Several possible candidates for national committeeman and committeewoman have been mentioned, but party sources indicated that both McKeldin and Mrs. Robert O. Bonnell were prepared to meet any challenge.

Among those mentioned here for McKeldin's post are William C. Purnell of Baltimore, White House speech writer Malcolm Moos, former Reps. Edward T. Miller and James P. S. Devereux and Mr. Rinehart.

Forest Fires Are Blamed On Human Errors

Officials Talk At Foresters' Meet

Joseph Kaylor, director of the Maryland Department of Forests and Parks, yesterday morning pointed out that most large forest fires are due to human error when he spoke at the opening session of the department's annual forest fire training session at Herrington Manor.

The purpose of the annual sessions, he said, is to eliminate such errors as soon as possible.

Mr. Kaylor also stressed the importance of fire protection in the woods and pointed out that water conservation and protection of watersheds is another vital job of everyone.

Also increasing in importance is the protection of land along streams. These areas, he said, must be protected in order that the land will act as a sponge in retaining rainfall.

Col. Peter Vander Lugt of Annapolis, property custodian and safety officer of the department, spoke on safety and said that with the increased number of persons working in forests, it behooves them to exercise caution. He said it is everyone's job to be more careful.

H. C. Buckingham, state forester, confined his talk to personnel management and general administration of the department.

Later in the day the maintenance and operation of various pumps used in fire fighting was demonstrated. Also a new product for fire retardment was demonstrated to about 125 foresters in attendance.
